FAMILY FIGHTS LIFER BARR

ASSASIN SHOT BY MUSSOLINI

ARMY FEUD CHARGED IN SLAYING

Trial for Manslaughter Urged by Board of Inquiry in Fort Revere Killing

Private Edmund Rideout of the 13th United States Infantry, the sentry who shot and killed Private Ralph H. Nordstrom, a prisoner, at Fort Revere, will probably be tried on a charge of manslaughter.

An army board of inquiry, consisting of four officers of the regiment, has made this recommendation to Colonel Paul Giddings, it is learned.

The report, which today was forwarded to Major General A. W. Brewster, commanding the First Army Corps Area, declares that the shooting was the outcome of a long feud between the two soldiers. Five shots were fired by Private Rideout when only one was necessary to bring the prisoner to a standstill, according to the board's findings.

Private Nordstrom, whose home is in Gloucester, was shot and instantly killed by Private Rideout on Tuesday. Nordstrom, working with other prisoners, attempted to flee, it was stated. Rideout shot him down.

The body of the dead soldier was

London, April 13 (By International News Service).—Miss Mathilde McCormick, eighteen-year-old granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller and Major Oser, middle-aged Swiss riding master, to whom she has been engaged for more than a year, were secretly married in London yesterday, International News Service was reliably informed this afternoon.

Basle, Switzerland, April 13.—Harold F. McCormick's gift to his pretty eighteen-year-old daughter Mathilde, when she marries Major Oser, her middle-aged Swiss suitor, will be a cozy chateau in the Swiss mountains, it was learned today.

Harold F. McCormick

The house hunting experiences of Mathilde and Major Oser, the former instructor in equestrianism, were thus described by William Christ, Major Oser's closest friend:

"Max and Mathilde, both of whom are inordinately fond of horseback riding, rode far and near last Fall looking for a place that suited them. Max refused to continue the hunt when the weather got bad. He said everything looked so bleak and dreary it would be better to wait until the snow had gone. Harold McCormick said if they would postpone the search until good weather he would give them an auto. He suggested that they take their time; take all summer if necessary. When they found a place that suited them, he said he would buy it for them."

FATHER AND 2 SONS BURNED TO DEATH

Princeton, Mo., April 13.—Max Koch, a chiropator and two sons, 7 and 11 years old, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed a building here today.

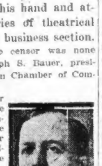
MUTILATES POSTERS IN LYNN

Bauer, Chamber of Commerce Head, Puts Knife to Theatrical Billboards

Lynn today witnessed a combination of Carrie Nation and Don Quixote tearing through the main streets with a large jack-knife in his hand and attacking a series of theatrical posters in the business section.

The jack-knife censor was none other than Ralph S. Bauer, president of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber of Commerce has been engaged for some time in a war on billboards, alleging they are a blight upon the beauty of the city. Bauer has taken the lead in the campaign against billboards, and the display of these posters right on the sidewalks—which has never occurred in Lynn—was like waving a red flag in front of an angry bull.



Ralph S. Bauer

At the Strand Theatre this week is a picture called "The Third Alarm." An energetic young press agent, one Eddie Hurley, determined to impress upon the Lynn public the fact that this picture was in town. It being a fire department subject he had no trouble in getting his posters displayed alongside of the downtown fire house.

In addition a series of posters twelve feet by six feet wide, made of quarter-inch board, was tied along

Slashes Babe and Hangs Himself

Worcester, April 13 (By International News Service).—Oscar Carlson, a wire mill worker, while crazed with moonshine, according to the police, today slashed the throat of his four-year-old daughter, fractured her skull and then committed suicide by cutting his throat and hanging himself.

The child is at the City Hospital in a critical condition. Carlson had previously chased his wife from their home, threatening her life.

TRIAL OF MORSE AND HIS SONS POSTPONED

Washington, April 13.—Trial of Charles W. Morse, his three sons and others on indictments growing out of wartime shipbuilding operations again was postponed today, physicians appointed to examine Harry Morse, who is ill, not having reported. The case will come up again April 16.

HUNT DE VALERA IN MOUNTAINS

Dublin, April 13. — Eamon De Valera, leader of the Irish Republicans, was still at large today, but Free State troops were reported hot on his trail in the mountains on the northern border of Tipperary County.

SEIZE TUGBOAT AND BOOZE WORTH $80,000

New York, April 13.—Customs inspectors aboard the rum chaser Lexington today seized the ocean-going tug Peerless in the narrows, arrested her crew of eight and confiscated 800 cases of whiskey, valued at $80,000.

PRIEST BEGS TO DIE FOR MURDER

Declares He Was Goaded to Kill Pastor and Prefers Chair to Prison

Kalamazoo, Mich., April 13. "God Almighty justified it; otherwise He would not have permitted me to fire the revolver," the Rev. Charles Dillon said today, confessing the slaying of Rev. Father Henry O'Neill.

Father O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's Roman Catholic Church here, was shot six times by Father Dillon at the supper table, dying instantly. Father Dillon alleged Father O'Neill persecuted him.

"I knelt before God and prayed that something would happen to that man," Father Dillon was quoted as saying in a statement made to Prosecutor Stephen H. Wattles today.

The statement at times was disconnected and contained numerous repetitions.

WANTS TO DIE IN CHAIR.

"I had no right to kill Father O'Neill; not one right in the world," the statement said. "I took that in my own hands and I killed him. I want to go to Jackson (the State prison). I'd rather have the chair.

"I never did any harm in my life. Never took a cent from anybody. The gentle little children all over Michigan will tell you they love me."

Asked how long he had possessed the revolver, Father Dillon said, "Not very long."

"Did you purchase it for the purpose?" asked the prosecutor.

"Yes, for the purpose," replied the priest, "conditionally for the purpose. Not absolutely to say it was going to happen; I hoped it would not."

Asked who was at the dinner table at the time of the shooting Father Dillon replied that Father McCullough was present, but countered: "What do you want of witnesses? I'll tell the truth. We were eating. He told me to get out.

PUBLISHER FIGHTS PLEA FOR BARR

Fitchburg Editor Opposed to Granting Pardon to "Lifer" Now in State Prison

By HAROLD R. HALL.

Fitchburg, April 13.—James Barr, formerly of this city, who has served twenty-three years of a life sentence in State prison for an attack on a forty-four-year-old spinster, will have to spend the rest of his life in prison if his family and George H. Godbeer, editor and owner of the Fitchburg Sentinel, have their way.

This, despite the fact that the State Board of Parole has voted unanimously that he be released; that every Scottish organization in the Commonwealth is behind the fight to give Barr his freedom; that Barr has already served more than twice as long a term in prison as usually given for the offence committed, and that the most prominent Scotchmen in the nation are behind him.

FAMILY FEARS HARM.

Barr's divorced wife and his three daughters and his son have declared at hearings before the Parole Board and the Governor's Council that they will be in fear of harm from Barr if he is released.

Why Editor Godbeer has lined up against this little old man and is fighting to keep him behind the prison walls until he dies is a problem that every Scotchman in the Commonwealth is trying to solve. Just what the interest is that makes this editor of a powerful paper lire himself up to keep James Barr in jail is one of the big mysteries of the unusual case.

REFUSES TO EXPLAIN.

Godbeer refuses to give the solution. The Boston American reporter called on him today and asked him to explain his stand. He refused. He told the reporter it was none of his business—that it was not the business of anyone.

"I have no statements to make."

Speaking of Friday, the thirteenth—

How about Thomas H. Meade, the third, of No. 615 Adams street, Dorchester?

He is thirteen today. He wears a thirteen collar. Thirteen is his lucky number.

Thomas knows the combination of Friday and thirteen is fortunate, at least on this particular occasion, for he got lots of birthday presents, and he is the tallest boy of his age in Mary Hemenway school, therefore much envied by his mates, and his baseball team which has thirteen players with subs, has started a winning season.

2 ATTEMPTS ON LIFE OF PREMIER

One of the Assailants Is Captured Due to the Fascisti Leader's Quick Action

Paris, April 13.—Two attempts have been made to assassinate Premier Mussolini of Italy, the news of which was censored and not allowed to get out of Rome, according to a report received here.

The first attempt was made in Chigi Palace while the Italian dictator was holding a Cabinet meeting. A trooper of the Royal Guard fired at the Premier but missed him.

The second occasion was when

PRISON FOR GIRL'S ASSAILANT

Sentence of two and one-half to five years in State prison was imposed by Judge Lummus at East Cambridge courthouse today on William H. Mason, Wakefield fish dealer, convicted yesterday by his second trial jury of a statutory offence against 13-year-old Helen H. Waters of Wakefield. District Attorney Reading announced that the other three men indicted in this case would be brought to trial as soon as possible.

THINK MRS. PHILLIPS IS IN LATIN AMERICA

Los Angeles, April 13.—Belief that Mrs. Clara Phillips, "hammer murderess" who escaped from jail December 5, had fled to Latin-America, was strengthened when Louis D. Oaks, chief of police, received from Guatemala the following cablegram: "What does Clara Phillips look like? Sharp."

PRIEST WILLING TO PAY DEATH PENALTY FOR KILLING PASTOR

SORRY HE CANNOT GO TO ELECTRIC CHAIR OR GALLOWS

The last thing he said was: 'Pack up and go.'

TELLS OF THE KILLING.

"I said, 'All right, I will go.' I did go and pack up and he didn't lift the packing in my hand. I pulled the gun and fired.

"He said: 'I'm shot, father; I'm shot.' Right in the midst of that I seized the salt cellar to throw at him. I fired again—twice—and he dropped against the window."

After the shooting Father Dillon turned to Father McCullough, the only witness of the tragedy, and tossed on the table a phial containing holy oils, with the request that the other administer extreme unction at once. The slayer next went to the telephone and calmly called the police and coroner.

Arraignment of Father Dillon on a first degree murder charge was expected.

"I would do the same thing over again under the same circumstances. I am willing to pay society's price for the act," said Father Dillon, according to authorities.

"Give me life in Jackson Prison. I am sorry I shall not be hanged or electrocuted."

NOT INSANE, HE SAYS.

"I am not insane. I can pass any mentality tests," Father Dillon told city and county officials, according to police today. "I killed Father O'Neill deliberately. He persecuted me; he belittled me; he did not even call me father; he treated me like a boy; he refused to let me visit families of the parish or to take any part in the life of the parish except that of the meanest and most humble."

Father Dillon said he had "been drinking during the day" a medicine, the name of which he did not know, containing alcohol, police announced.

"There was between fifteen and eighteen per cent alcohol in it," Father Dillon is alleged to have told police.

Father Dillon's life has been picturesque and as a travelling missionary he has visited many countries.

Father Dillon is fifty-seven, a year older than his victim. Police said that he spoke as a man apparently sane. He was not a member of the Detroit diocese, but was a visiting priest, helping out at different places.

The bishop says the slayer's "oddities" have attracted attention. The bishop believes Father Dillon is mad.

Father O'Neill became pastor of St. Augustine's Church in 1921, succeeding the late Right Rev. Mgr. F. A. O'Brien. He was appointed by Bishop Gallagher. He was about fifty-six years old, having been born at Hubbardston, Mich. He was a graduate of Assumption College of Sandwich, Canada, and also of the seminary at Baltimore.

the "white way" posts in Central square.

Hurley had applied for permission to do this, and a permit had been duly signed by John R. Graham, superintendent of streets, in view of the subject of the picture.

When Bauer heard about it he whipped out his knife and in the full sight of police began to rip the posters down, severing the ropes which held them to the posts. Before any move could be made to prevent him, he had cut down every poster that was up.

NAVY EXPERT CALLS EINSTEIN "HUMBUG"

By The Associated Press.

Vallejo, Cal., April 13.—Captain T. J. See, U. S. N., astronomer at the Mare Island navy yard, in a statement denouncing Prof. Albert Einstein as an imitator and spreader of untenable theories, expresses regret at the action of Dr. W. William Campbell, director of Lick Observatory, in announcing that he had confirmed the Einstein theory of relativity insofar as it concerned the bending of star rays.

"I value highly the work of the Lick Observatory," he said, "but I regret to see it issue statements which lend support to the greatest piece of humbuggery in any age."

He said the Einstein theory cannot be confirmed.

SAYS N. Y. COPS SELL BOOZE AFTER RAIDS

New York, April 13.—Magistrate Corrigan today told the commissioner of accounts what prompted his recent statement from the bench that "half of the cops are bootleggers."

Testifying at the investigation of charges against the police by the magistrate and by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Magistrate Corrigan enumerated instances reported to him of raids conducted without warrants, of police openly drinking much of the evidence and of bootleg liquor appearing in the neighborhood soon thereafter.

FRIDAY THE 13TH PICKED BY SUICIDE

Westfield, April 13.—Sixty-year old Edward Algate chose Friday the 13th for suicide. He was ill and despondent. He plugged doors and windows at his home, where he lived alone, at No. 19 Cherry street, reposed on a couch by the gas range, put a gas tube in his mouth, turned on the gas and asphyxiated himself.

POISONED PORK KILLS 2 BOYS; GIRL IS ILL

Fort Fairfield, Me., April 13.—The two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Oak, living at California, N. B., are dead and their eleven-year-old daughter is seriously ill as result of poisoning caused by eating pork.

The children were afflicted early Sunday. They died within an hour of each other.

taken to the hospital of Dr. Allen H. Sturges at Hull. Two bullets were found in the body. Further evidence showed that three more bullets missed.

The cause of the alleged feud between the two soldiers has not been revealed. Much of the evidence obtained in this direction, it is said came from Gloucester, the home of Nordstrom.

The Board of Inquiry of the Thirteenth Infantry was made up of Major Charles W. Rich, Major Jones, Captain W. E. Hackett and Lieutenant Irving A. Opperman.

Major-General Brewster has assured full justice to all in the case. A statement by General Brewster said: "As soon as the evidence is before me, I will take such action as I deem advisable to insure that full justice is done to all interests concerned, to wit: the United States, the sentinel and the soldier who was killed."

Medical Examiner J. Peterson of Hingham has refused to issue any public statements concerning the case and matters will rest until General Brewster makes his findings in the evidence.

Nordstrom was a prisoner on general charges of fraudulent enlistment and desertion, according to army officials. The soldier's widow, who lives at No. 49 Brightside avenue, Gloucester, claims her husband was being held wrongfully and was in ill health.

JAPAN IMPORTERS ENTER SUGAR MARKET

New York, April 13.—Japanese importers are the latest foreign buyers to come into the local sugar market. Two cargoes, totalling 12,000 tons, sold today for June shipment, for 6 cents a pound, f.o.b. Cuba, were said to be for Japanese interests. Canadian and British importers have been heavy buyers in the last two weeks.

150 JAILED IN ANTI-SOVIET PLOT

Copenhagen, April 13 (By International News Service).—One hundred and fifty persons have been arrested in Moscow in an anti-Soviet plot, said a dispatch from Helsingfors today.

A secret arms depot was seized.

25 PERSONS ARE DRIVEN OUT BY CHELSEA FIRE

Twenty-five men, women and children were driven out in night clothing today by fire in four tenement houses, Nos. 88, 91, 93 and 95 Spencer avenue, Chelsea.

Several of the women and children were carried out by firemen. Among those burned out were James Dunphy and family, Ellen Sullivan, Sarah Brown and Andrea Quitko and family. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

said Godbeer. "I have no explanations to offer. Now are needed. I have made all my statements before the Parole Board and the Governor's Council. I do not have to make any to the newspapers. I refuse to say what my interest is or why I want James Barr to remain in jail for life. I simply do not want him to be freed. That is sufficient."

According to Godbeer's idea, James Barr should be allowed to stay in prison and have his name and his cause kept from the newspapers and the public.

"It is an outrage to print the story of this man's request for freedom and an outrage to print the story of his family's request to have him held in jail," said Godbeer. "Those people have suffered enough already without disgracing them through the press. This thing should never be made public."

Miss Isabella Barr, daughter of James, is employed as a reporter on Godbeer's newspaper.

One Colored Mother
Mr. Ralston Comes Forward
That World Court Hitting a Woman
—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright 1923, Star Co.

DEAN INGE of St. Paul's, London, is worried because 77 per cent. of young girls that go to Oxford do not marry, but "take vows of perpetual maidenhood." There is no cause for worry. The 77 per cent only amount to 1,943 girls. They will do useful work even if they don't have babies. And this must be remembered. Only women that want babies create really good babies. And only really good babies are wanted. More important than anything else is the mother's affection.

On Wednesday, in the obstetric department of Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, this writer saw a young colored woman nursing her brand new little black baby. The combination of affection and happiness in that poor mother's face represents a force that means more to this world than all the education of all the colleges That force created colleges and all else that is good in civilization.

THE NATIONAL POLITICAL pot is simmering. In Nebraska sixteen hundred citizens sign a petition to put Henry Ford's name on the presidential ballot as candidate of the Progressive party. That makes five or six parties that have wanted him on the ticket so far. Some really want him. Others want his money. The latter will be disappointed.

MR. RALSTON of Indiana is, next to McAdoo, the prominent candidate for the Democratic nomination. Senator Ralston was a first-class farmer-Governor, best Beveridge for the Senatorship, and would make a strong candidate for the farmers. Some wise politicians would bet "even money" on Ralston's nomination.

Many politicians affirm that the election of a Democrat next year is certain barring unforeseen Henry Ford developments.

AMERICANS HAVE obtained oil grants from the Turkish government. England joins France in protest. The French government declares that such grants would constitute an "unfriendly act" that might lead to a "diplomatic incident of great importance."

This sounds like "talking fight."

What chance does President Harding think the United States citizens would have if that claim came before the world court? In that and in other cases the American chance would be about equal to that of a sheep stealing dog in a court made up of farmers.

MR. HUGHES, avenging the cowardly killing of a clergyman in Russia, forbids Madame Kalinin, wife of the Russian President, to enter the United States, which does not put the United States in a dignified attitude.

There are MEN in Russia. Why not fight them? Mr. Hughes, in a quarrel with his neighbor, would not hit the man's wife or baby. He would hit the man or keep quiet. The United States is big enough, if it chooses, to do something more effective than shut out a woman.

AND, BY THE WAY, why is this government so greatly and properly excited about the execution of one clergyman and apparently so indifferent to other similar executions in Russia?

At the time of that clergyman's condemnation eighty-four civilians, tried as he was tried, for political reasons, were also condemned. Why is there no protest concerning those men? Are they of no importance in the eyes of this Republican government because they happen not to be clergymen?

That would seem rather strange specializing for a nation whose Constitution recognizes no particular form of religion.

TROTZKY, NOW practically sole ruler of Russia with Lenin ill, is inclined to turn from Communism. That is natural. His ancestors outgrew that centuries ago. "Modified capitalism" is his idea, with "one-man management of factories."

It doesn't take much intelli-

HICCOUGHS 172 DAYS, AT LAST GETS RELIEF

VERA WYMAN

South Boston girl suffered from hiccoughs 137 days, then a readjustment in her spine stopped the trouble. But she is so active that the hiccoughs came on again. If she is careful a full cure is promised.

For 172 days, including today, eleven-year-old Vera Wyman has been suffering from hiccoughs. But some relief has been obtained and cure is anticipated. But Vera must not jump about too much in her childish play.

Vera is the daughter of C. E. Wyman of Old Harbor street, South Boston. Her hiccoughs began last October. Ten different doctors tried to relieve her.

Then she was taken to the office of Dr. Kendrick Smith, osteopathic physician. He discovered that a vertebra in the middle of her spine was out of place. This displacement was rectified. The hiccoughs ceased. This was March 9, the 137th day since the hiccoughing began.

But Vera is as active as any 11-year-old girl. She kept on the jump so from morning to night that the vertebra which had been treated did not receive proper opportunity to heal in the replaced position.

Result—Vera suffered a slight relapse and the hiccoughing reappeared. But Vera, with exercise of care in her play, now tells you with a smile that she is going to get well.

FRENCH TAKING STERN ACTION IN RUHR

Coblenz, April 13 (By the Associated Press).—The Rhineland High Commission today ordered the expulsion of 433 additional Germans, for the most part employes of the customs service and the railroads.

Cologne, April 13.—The French are enforcing increasingly stern measures everywhere in the Ruhr.

At Bochum the German police force have been disarmed and the municipal offices at Herne and Bochum have been cleared of all furniture.

The French troops have occupied Treves and the occupants of forty-two houses were forced to leave.

France Lays Down Terms of German Proposal

Paris, April 13.—No German proposition will be listened to by the French government or taken as a basis for negotiations unless Germany first agrees to pay fifty billion gold marks without any conditions, and also ratifies the validity of the class "C" bonds which France proposes shall be used to pay her debts to the Allies.

Germany must also cease her demands for evacuation of the Ruhr as a preliminary condition, and must make a proposition directly to Premier Poincare through the German charge d'affaires in Paris.

$20,000 COAL YARD FIRE IN TILTON, N. H.

Tilton, N. H., April 13.—Fire in the coal and wood yard of C. N. Hubert on Park street caused $20,000 damage and set several other small fires on the roofs of nearby houses. The trestle shed was totally destroyed with its contents, two tons of hay, 75 tons of hard coal and 40 tons of soft coal. Machinery and two trucks were also destroyed. A freight car on a spur track fell into the middle of the fire with its load of hard coal.

THREATEN TO BURN CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Calgary, Alta., April 13.—Letters threatening to burn the buildings of Roman Catholic institutions in this city have been received by ecclesiastical authorities and by the police, it was announced today. The letters were signed Ku Klux Klan. Policemen have been placed to guard the Sacred Heart Convent.

VICTOR ARTISTS TO PLAY AT SYMPHONY

Miss Gertrude Westling, popular Boston dancer, will appear in special dance numbers at Symphony Hall next Wednesday evening. Wheeler Wadsworth, saxophone player, and Zez Confrey, eccentric pianist, will appear in conjunction with several Victor record artists.

METHODISTS LAUD MARTYRED PRIESTS

New York, April 13.—The Roman Catholic priests and priests condemned by the Soviet government, one of whom, Monsignor Butchkavitch, was executed, are acclaimed by the Christian Advocate, a Methodist publication, in an editorial.

"It is not for any Protestant to lessen the glory of these martyrs by saying they were obedient to 'Rome rather than to God,'" it reads. "They have been bred in belief that the voice that speaks to them through the church is the voice of God. And in their defiance of that Soviet law which offends the dictates of conscience, they have displayed a heroism that links them with all who through the ages have said, 'We know that we ought to obey God rather than men.'"

U. S. TO TAX ALL BOOTLEGGERS

Kills Father to End His Suffering

RUM RINGS MUST PAY MILLIONS

U. S. Starts Drive to Tax Bootleggers Who Have Made Fortunes in Whiskey

By International News Service.

Washington, April 13.—The government decided to launch a campaign to force illicit whiskey dealers to disgorge millions of dollars alleged to be due the government in taxes on liquor sales.

Internal Revenue collectors, cooperating with prohibition authorities have been ordered to dig into the records gathered in raids and seizures for evidence to compel payment of hidden revenues.

Revenue experts estimated today there are probably 50,000 wealthy bootleggers in the United States liable for tax payments and penalties provided by law for defaulting.

RICH BANK ACCOUNTS.

The new drive grows out of sensational disclosures of a ring of Georgia bootleggers who are reported to have amassed fortunes within the past two years. Bank accounts and other records that show the extent of their operations have been opened to the government's experts.

The evidence gathered in this case is being followed up in a score of States at this time by revenue collectors, for it developed that the Georgia "ring" of whiskey dealers was affiliated with other rings in almost every important "wet" stronghold.

Officials cited the fact that the revenue law imposed a tax of $6.40 a gallon on all whiskey sold. The penalties for non-payment are more than double that sum.

MUST PROVE CHARGES.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials face as their chief difficulty the problem of establishing to the satisfaction of the courts that the wealth accumulated by the bootleggers and those who supply the bootleggers with their stocks is directly due to whiskey sales. Officials admitted they will be unable to proceed on mere suspicion.

They are greatly aided in the job up to this point by ledgers and other records of whiskey plants which were operating under government permits, but which were in fact diverting large quantities of whiskey to illegal channels. Records taken on ships in the smuggling fleet operating off the Atlantic coast also are considered valuable.

Some estimates are that in those cases alone where conclusive proof exists the treasury may be enriched by upwards of $35,000,000 during the current year.

2 ATTEMPTS TO KILL MUSSOLINI

Mussolini was in his car alone at night on the outskirts of Rome. A trooper lurking by the road fired at him at short range, but again it was without wounding the Premier. Mussolini whipped out his revolver and shot his attacker, inflicting a severe wound, resulting in the capture of his assailant.

GLORIA SWANSON'S EX-HUSBAND TO WED

Los Angeles, April 13.—Wallace Beery, one of the leading "bad men" of the screen, is to marry Frisze Ridgeway of the Hollywood film colony.

Wallace Beery

Formal announcement of the engagement is yet to be made, but the engagement is an open secret among their friends.

Beery, who is famous for his portrayal of "two-gun" hard-boiled type, was married in 1917 to Gloria Swanson. In less than a year he obtained a divorce on the ground of desertion. He testified that the beauteous Gloria positively refused to live with him.

HUB YOUTH SOUGHT AS SLAYER

Left-Handed Gangster Known as Lester Riley Wanted in Concord, N. H., Case

Concord, N. H., April 13.—Lester Riley, alias A. W. Marston, alias O'Brien, left-handed Boston gunman, held Mrs. Vernon T. Atkins by the throat with his right hand, and with a German automatic pistol in his left hand advanced on Atkins, whom he slew when the latter tried to escape by a rear door.

In addition to a description of the gunman, which is none too complete, police now know the gunman they seek is left handed. His finger-prints, obtained from the pistol he dropped when he fled from the scene of the shooting, are being compared with finger prints at Boston Police Headquarters today.

Two Cambridge police inspectors are in Cambridge today following a clue indicating that Riley is hiding in Cambridge. It is rumored in police circles that two Cambridge men may shed some light on the murder of Atkins.

That someone other than Henning, who is now held without bail in connection with the killing, hired Riley to get rid of Atkins, is the belief of police officials here. Said City Marshal Kimball:

"I am inclined to think Henning was more or less of an innocent victim of this gunman he hardly knew and that the gunman, with other confederates, was plotting to get the car away from Henning, and perhaps kill him too."

Henning's case was today continued nominally until April 20 or until such time as the slayer may be apprehended. He was committed to jail without bail.

Frank A. Batchelder, Representative in the Legislature from Exeter, has been retained by the Boston firm employing Henning to conduct Henning's defence in court. Members of the firm are acquainted with Henning's history as a bootlegger, but express confidence in his intention to "go straight," which they declare he has done since he came into their employ. He was employed by the H. E. Holbrook Company, room No. 621 Massachusetts Trust Company Building, as a salesman.

It became known today that the police of Medford hold a warrant for the arrest of Henning on a charge of larceny. He is alleged to have stolen $76 worth of accessories from the Cheney Boat Company of Medford in July, 1921.

Ask Second Divorce in 5 Years

MRS. MARGARET K. BAILEY.

Money, despite popular belief, is a wrecker of romance, according to Mrs. Margaret K. Bailey, Brookline heiress, who is seeking a divorce from James F. Bailey, a real estate dealer.

"My husband knew that I would inherit a large sum of money when my stepmother died, and that is why he married me. Afterward he got impatient and abused me because I couldn't capitalize as lavishly as he wanted me to," Mrs. Bailey declared. This is the second divorce action she has brought in five years.

Her first husband, she said, however, had really loved her until he met a woman who fascinated him more.

The Baileys were married in 1921 in Walpole, N. H., and later lived on Commonwealth avenue in Brookline. The decree will not be granted until Mrs. Bailey presents the remnant of a "cruel and abusive letter" on which she based her charges.

HACKED TO DEATH BY HATCHET

43-Year-Old Son Declares He Has No Regrets for His Crime

Evansville, Ind., April 13.—After thinking the matter over, he decided it was best "to put the old man out of his misery," George Virgin, 43 years old, declared when arraigned in City Court charged with the slaying of his father, John Virgin, 73, a paralytic.

Virgin entered a plea of guilty and was bound over to the Circuit Court without bond.

"We were lying together on a bed," Virgin said, "when I decided to put him out of the way. He had been paralyzed for eight years and I wanted to end his sufferings."

He dragged the old man from the house to a small concrete tank used for butchering cattle, he said, and threw him into the water. He then obtained a hatchet and struck the old man in the head with it.

"I hit him an awful lick, but his skull was thick. I must have hit him ten times, but he didn't die right away.

"The old man didn't realize what I was doing to him. He just mumbled. He didn't put up a fight at all. The only time he said anything was when I was pulling him to the tank. Then he said: 'Oh, you're hurting my arm. Don't, don't, don't, George.'"

Virgin said he did not regret killing his father, declaring he did right by stopping the latter's agony.

LORENZ TO OPEN NEWARK HOSPITAL

Newark, N. J., April 13.—Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the famous Austrian surgeon, will make his permanent home here and open an orthopedic hospital for free treatment of poor crippled children upon his return to Vienna this Summer, he announced at a reception and luncheon given by Mayor Briedenback a t the Newark Athletic Club in his honor.

Dr. A. Lorenz.

The hospital will be built by a $100,000 donation made by George A. Ohl of Newark and will be conducted through a fund now being raised by the Elks of New Jersey. Dr. Lorenz will give his services without pay.

JUVENILE COURT SIZES UP EACH CHILD

The function of the juvenile courts, according to Judge Frederick P. Cabot of that court, is to ascertain the assets in each child before it and to see how these assets can be used to make the child of value to society. Judge Cabot said this in addressing a conference on "The Mental Health of the Child," held by the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene in Ford Hall. Dr. Walter Fernald, superintendent of Massachusetts School for Feeble-Minded at Waverly, said that now the assets of the feeble-minded were being noted, whereas they formerly were regarded merely as liabilities. Dr. G. K. Pratt, mental director of the Massachusetts Society for Mental Hygiene, and Dr. D. A. Thom, director of Massachusetts state division of mental hygiene, spoke. Dr. C. M. Campbell, director of the Psychopathic Hospital and president of the society, presided.

RUSSIA TO TRIPLE HER GRAIN EXPORTS

Moscow, April 13.—One hundred million poods of Russian grain were exported from the 1922 crop, according to a report issued by the Soviet department of statistics (a pood is equivalent to about 36 pounds avoirdupois). It is estimated that the 1923 grain exports will reach 300,000,000 poods from which it is hoped to derive between 200,000,000 and 350,000,000 gold rubles.

POLICE WARBLE INTO GRACES OF BOOTLEGGERS

Assuming the role of troubadours, two successful raids on illicit liquor places were made by Special Officers Arthur Tiernan and Edward Kelly of the East Dedham street police station.

At the rear door of Jacob Silverman's establishment, No. 7 Decatur street, the two dry officers sang, "Oh, Softly the Cuckoo is Calling Now," until the back door opened. A dollar bill changed hands and so did a pint of liquor. Lieutenant Murray Munroe presided while Silverman told his story at the police station.

Warbling sweetly, "How Dry I Am," won the confidence of Louis Bianc, tea store proprietor, at No. 497A Harrison avenue and another pint of liquor was forthcoming. The time for the two arrests was twenty minutes.

BELIEVE REALTY MAN IS ADDICT OF LAUDANUM

Federal Narcotic Inspectors L. J. Kelly and C. H. Williams of Boston today arrested Charles R. Noyes in a New London, Ct., drug store on charges of forging physicians' prescriptions and possession of laudanum, a derivitive of opium. Noyes is a New London real estate operator. He is married and has seven children.

The narcotic inspectors believe Noyes is a laudanum addict. His arrest is the first in New England of this type.

According to the Federal officials he has been forging prescriptions for five years.

He is said to have told the drug clerks who filled the prescriptions that he had an incurable heart disease.

According to the Federal officers the name of Dr. A. G. Woodward, No. 412 West 116th street, New York city, was printed on the prescriptions. They were filled at the drug store of Starr Brothers, Inc., No. 110 State street, New London, and Nichols & Harris, No. 119 State street, New London.

The inspectors say they found prescription blanks and laudanum in Noyes pockets when they placed him under arrest as he was about to have a prescription filled.

GOMPERS HITS GARLAND FUND

By Universal Service.

Washington, April 13.—The American Federation of Labor, through Samuel Gompers, its president, charges that the corporation formed to distribute the $800,000 fortune of Charles Garland of Boston, is "un-American and revolutionary."

The organization is known as "The American Fund for Public Service, Inc.," with headquarters at No. 2 West 13th street, New York City. Its principal director is Roger Baldwin, described by Gompers as "the directing genius of the so-called American Civil Liberties Union and an active figure in the councils of the Federated Press."

Charles Garland

REFUSE ENDOWMENT.

Gompers' charges are based on the refusal of the organization to grant an endowment to the Workers' Education Bureau of America, formed under the auspices of the Federation of Labor "for the purpose of promoting education among adult wage earners."

Refusing to grant the endowment Mr. Baldwin is quoted by Gompers as writing:

"The American Fund for Public Service, Inc., in its support of labor education, shall favor those organizations and institutions which instill into the workers the knowledge and the qualities which will fit them for carrying on the struggle for the emancipation of their class in every sphere. . . . . We do not see our way clear to financing any enterprises except those definitely committed to a radical program of the character indicated."

"LETTER CAUTIOUS."

Commenting on this letter, Gompers states:

"The language of the letter is purposely guarded and cautious, but its meaning is clear. The Workers' Education Bureau is not revolutionary and is not therefore worthy of the support of the American Fund for Public Service, Inc. This is the precise statement of a somewhat diplomatically worded communication."

The application of the Workers' Bureau for the endowment, according to Gompers, was only meant to test the nature of the American Fund. He says:

PROVED BY TEST.

"Because the name adopted appeared not at all to indicate the real purpose of the organization, a test was made in order that authoritative and final proof might be had as to the purpose to which the enormous fund bequeathed to Garland was to be put.

"Mr. Garland said at the time the money was left him that he intended to give away the entire amount. It is apparent that he had at best only a loose idea of how to proceed about giving the money away, but he was not long left without advice."

USE SULPHUR ON AN ECZEMA SKIN
Any Skin Irritation Quickly Healed by Mentho-Sulphur

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin, in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or blotches.

You do not have to wait for improvement, it quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

JUANITA, WARNED OF DEATH BY DOPE, LAUGHS AT DOCTOR

By JUANITA HANSEN.

The doctor kept his word all right.

I got my cocaine.

The doctor introduced me to a man. Who he was or what he was I was never able to find out. But I was content to get pure cocaine at last "without asking any questions." This cocaine bore the label of one of our largest wholesale drug companies.

I purchased for the first time pure morphine and pure cocaine. Indeed, it was wonderful for me to get the pure narcotic, but I paid an awful price. By this I mean it almost caused my death. For I took an overdose.

One cannot tell by looking at the narcotic whether it is fifty, seventy-five or one hundred per cent. pure. It all looks the same. The narcotic that crosses our borders, undoubtedly when first brought into this country is pure. But by the time it has changed hands, perhaps twenty times before finally reaching the addict consumer, what other ingredients the narcotic contains God alone only knows.

Weakening Process

Take, for example, a man purchasing twenty ounces. Out of the twenty, why should he not make twenty-five? This process is very simple, if the original narcotic is in powder form. This is especially true of heroin, which is usually in powder form.

Twenty of the twenty-five ounces the wholesaler will sell ten to another pedlar, probably a wholesaler on a small scale. Now, this small wholesaler decides he will make fifteen ounces out of ten by adding sugar of milk or one of fifteen other ingredients having the same appearance as the drug.

Now this lesser wholesaler, let's say, will divide these fifteen ounces among three or perhaps four pedlars. Take, for example one pedlar who purchases three ounces. Of three ounces sure he can make at least four. Perhaps you think I am exaggerating when I tell you that each transaction not only means a considerable profit, but the temptation to fool the next purchaser is something that is very hard to resist.

So you can readily understand by the time this original narcotic, labelled "pure," has changed hands at least half a dozen times, it reaches the addict far from pure.

As I stated above, one cannot tell by the tone or the looks of the thing itself what it contains. Only the taking of the narcotic will prove that.

Danger of Overdose

Years ago, when you were able to purchase narcotics at any corner drug store for the asking, I am sure that overdoses and deaths caused by narcotics were not nearly so frequent. For example:

An addict becomes accustomed, or perhaps even forms a habit of, taking a certain quantity, which he places in a spoon in the little water to "cook," if he takes it hypodermically, or if he takes it through his nostrils he forms the habit of taking a certain amount on the end of a nail file or a penknife.

You can readily understand, if the addict has been taking a narcotic that is 60 per cent. pure and finds he needs a certain amount for his dose, it is very easy for him to take an overdose—if he is fortunate enough to get a pure narcotic, 100 per cent. pure. No dealer or pedlar ever tells you the narcotic he sells is anything but 100 per cent. pure. Mr. Pedlar will always tell you that he handles the finest stuff that can be purchased, and Mr. Addict always takes his word for it.

In the first part of this article, I spoke of taking an overdose myself. This was due to the quality of the cocaine I was "fortunate" enough to secure through the doctor above mentioned. He himself had told me he would see that I got pure cocaine, and he most assuredly kept his word!

Prominent Guests

One afternoon, about four o'clock, I was preparing to go to Atlantic City to attend a house party. My maid had packed my bag, and my car had been sent over from the garage. Perhaps four or five people were in my apartment at the time—two prominent film players, a well-known portrait painter and a very prominent author were among those present.

They may all have had their suspicions that I was using narcotics, but I have told you this was a secret. I always tried hard to hide. None of my guests ever used narcotics so far as I know. From this day I became an adict I had sworn never to attend parties with addicts or associate socially with any one who used drugs.

If I had to use narcotics, I would use them alone.

Was this a sin or a virtue? I wonder!

At least, I am grateful I never have forged another link binding a new victim to the devil's chain, which usually is a result of "parties."

This particular afternoon I speak of, when I took my first overdose, I was dressed for motoring—my bag was packed, my car was waiting. But before making my departure I excused myself and entered the bathroom. I prepared a "shot" with the usual amount of cocaine that I had been accustomed to taking or "Mr. Pedlar's stuff," never giving a thought to the fact that the doctor had warned me that this cocaine was pure.

The result:

Within a very few minutes I was "out." I fell on the floor of the bathroom unconscious. I remained unconscious for twenty minutes.

My guests became alarmed at my long absence and one of the girls entered the bathroom to ascertain what was detaining me. There I was, stretched out. I was unconscious, with the hypodermic syringe still in one hand. Of course I do not remember all that happened.

But they summoned my secretary and my maid and called a doctor—not my physician, but the hotel doctor. He was bending over me when I finally was aroused from the stupor.

I cannot find words to express my humiliation when I realised what had happened and that those present in my apartment at the time all knew MY SECRET.

My mind was in a whirl. It seemed I had come to the end of things.

I DID NOT GO TO ATLANTIC CITY.

My guests were kind enough and thoughtful enough to save me a great deal of embarrassment by leaving me alone. After they had left, to myself I thought this must be the end of everything. Now the whole world would know my secret. WHAT WAS THE USE OF GOING ON?

I could not give up narcotics, and I couldn't live or work without them. I am sure I regretted that I ever came to that day.

For two days I remained home ashed. I refused to answer the phone or to see any one that called. But on Monday morning I was off to the studio to carry on my work.

At this particular time I speak of I had lost considerable weight, I only weighed 115 pounds.

Every day at the studio for the next two months I was a woman alive, yet a woman dead! I had become a mere automaton, just going through the motions.

How I ever carried on my work I have often wondered, merely kept alive by the stimulant I was taking. Do not think that my doctor approved of this, for he thought it was criminal that any woman should be compelled to work in the condition that I was in at that time. All my life revolved around MY WORK. I must FINISH THE PRODUCTION!

Fought Against Habit

I fought time and time again against purposely taking an overdose, for I was tired of it all; but I believed so firmly and I knew I would have to work out this curse of narcotics, if not on this plane of existence it would be on another. Death, of my own volition, would not help me.

Life to me was simply work, studio, home, studio again, an endless round.

Then, one evening, in his office, my doctor said:

"Juanita, you will not live another month at the rate you are going! If you wish to live, you will have to give up this cocaine."

I laughed in his face. I needed cocaine to keep me awake, and I needed morphine to put me to sleep, and I surely couldn't work when I was asleep, and the "PRETENDER'S HEALTH," which cocaine gave me, enabled me to WORK.

The same doctor urged me, beggel me to leave the studio and go to a sanitarium where he could give me a cure with the proper care and attention, otherwise my life was limited to one month!

ONE MONTH TO LIVE! That was my death-sentence.

BRITISH LABOR FILIBUSTERS ON AIR FORCE BILL

International News Service.

London, April 13.—A filibuster by the Laborites kept the House of Commons in session all night.

Debate upon the army air force bill was begun after the Tory government of Premier A. Bonar Law obtained its vote of confidence by a majority of more than 100 votes.

Ramsay MacDonald. Photo by International News Reel.

The Laborites were led by Ramsay MacDonald. Their obstructionist tactics were confined to oratory. They did not attempt any "roughhouse" display such as caused a suspension of the session on Wednesday.

Lengthy speeches were made and numerous amendments to the army air force bill proposed. One member suggested an amendment abolishing capital punishment in the army.

During the lull in debate, while voting was in progress, the Laborites enlivened the occasion with song, but they did not offer any "revolutionary" music.

Their favorite was "John Brown's Body."

Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning Home Secretary W. C. Bridgeman appealed for an adjournment in order to enable the regular Friday session to open at 11 o'clock. He pointed out that, unless Commons adjourned before 11 o'clock, Friday's official session could not be held.

"Oh, that is all right," shouted the Laborites, and they continued with their speechmaking.

Adjournment finally was taken and the regular Friday session opened. Adjournment till Monday soon followed.

MRS. CONVERSE FINDS DIVORCE MECCA AT NICE

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, April 13.—"Speaking of places to get a divorce, well, I just heard of the new way to get a divorce in Nice, a wonderful place for such things. I heard of it just before I left and I know one girl who got one there.

This is some of the news that Mrs. James Vail Converse brought back from Paris. Mrs. Converse is separated from her husband and is hoping for a divorce. Before her marriage she was Thelma Morgan, twin sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. She is a daughter of Harry Hayes Morgan, American Consul-General in Brussels.

SEEKS FILM CAREER.

Mrs. Converse, beautiful and not yet eighteen, is determined to make a name for herself and achieve fame through her own hard work in the moving pictures.

"It doesn't matter where you live," she explained, "you can go to Nice and just go up to the judge and tell him you are unhappy with your husband and wish to get a divorce."

She declared that the judge replies:

"All right, stay around here in Nice for three weeks and come back to me at the end of that time."

She continued:

"You hang around three weeks and go back to the judge." This time the judge says:

"You have been here for the required time and if you still want your divorce you may have it.'"

FOR EASY DIVORCE.

Mrs. Converse continued: "You say: 'Yes, I still want the divorce,' and the judge gives it. So there are you with no injunctions or inconveniences—a divorced woman. I think this is a wonderful plan. I think divorces should be easy to get anywhere. The old days, when a woman married her husband and so often made him for worse for a lifetime, in the spirit of martyrdom, are past.

"They want divorces when marriages turn out wrong, and they want to marry again and try to have success.

"I will not marry again, because I want to be free to work day or night and to have no obligation that will hinder my career.

"Divorces should be as easy in this country as in Nice.

"It is so foolish to have all the different divorce laws and more foolish to have to dig up all sorts of scandal and let everybody know about it in order to get a divorce."

Costume Ball Tonight Is Mecca for Society, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

FOR the past month or so society—especially the feminine portion thereof—has turned itself to the business of concocting a striking costume. Practically the entire Social Register will be there when the fiddles and the saxophones and the drums start to syncopate at the Copley-Plaza tonight. For tonight comes the annual costume ball in aid of the Free Hospital for Women, with Mesdames George Richard Fearing, Jr., James A. Parker, F. L. W. Richardson and Philip S. Sears as leading spirits.

There's a list of patronesses running all the way up and down Commonwealth avenue and Beacon street and touching the fashionable suburbs as well—far too long to be printed in full, but replete with such well-known cognomens as Mesdames Gorham Brooks, John S. Codman, George Peabody Gardner, Jr., Charles F. Choate, 3d, William C. Endicott, Jr., Albert F. Bigelow and Francis P. Sears.

MR. AND MRS. MacGREGOR JENKINS of Marlboro street have concluded their sojourn at Camden, S. C., and are returning North.

OUT Berkshire way a number of folk are opening their villas, despite the fact that Spring remains a very indefinite quantity, and several of the highways are washed out in places. Dr. and Mrs. Henry P. Jacques are staying for a few days at Gray House before opening their Lenox place, as are also Dr. and Mrs. William Norton Bullard of Marlboro street, who have leased The Corners, the Higginsons' estate, for two months.

I NOTE that Boston's one-time Clarisa Curtis, now the Princess Michael Cantacusene, Jr., is helping with a novel charity project of Gotham. It's called a garden cafe: it's being held this week at No. 589 Fifth avenue, and it's in aid of the Greenwich House School of Music.

The saleslades are all amateurs, as are also the waitresses—they serve tea there—to say nothing of a perfectly good "amatchoor" orchestra. It was yesterday that the blonde-haired daughter of the Tom Curtises was on duty as a waitress, together with Miss Cathleen Vanderbilt and Princess Santa Borghese.

MRS. CHARLES SUMNER HAMLIN and her daughter, Anna, who are sailing for Europe tomorrow, are planning to return to these shores in July, when they will join Mr. Hamlin at the Summer home in Mattapoisett.

Of recent years the Hamlins have been making their Wigter home at the capital, where Anna Hamlin is one of the most widely-feted belles and no end popular with members of the younger diplomatic corps. It was some three or more years ago that Miss Hamlin had her Boston debut, where she's a member of the Vincent and the Chilton Clubs.

Betty Alden

Mrs. George Richmond Fearing, Jr., is of the group holding the leadership of the annual costume ball in aid of the Free Hospital for Women, which will draw many society folk to the Copley-Plaza tonight.

WOMAN TRAMPLED IN DUDLEY ST. RUSH

Caught in an avalanche of rush hour commuters at the Dudley street Elevated station, Mrs. Margaret Hill, fifty-seven years old, was knocked down and trampled upon while attempting to ascend a flight of stairs at the east loop. She was removed to City Hospital, suffering from a broken leg and cuts and bruises. Mrs. Hill lives at No. 6 East Dedham street, South End.

WOMEN VOTERS FRAME PROGRAM

Des Moines, Ia., April 13.—Final action on the program of measures, policies and activities of the National League of Women Voters for the coming year was to be taken today. There was every indication that it would be adopted without further debate.

A heated discussion occurred over a section of the uniform laws concerning division of property, but it finally was agreed to as drafted by the resolutions committee. The debated section provides that the State organizations shall work for laws which would make men and women share equally all moneys and property acquired after marriage.

Resolutions were introduced recommending that the State organizations undertake a plan of study of municipal government and a critical observation of legislative bodies and spread an understanding of the Presidential primary laws during the coming year with a view to full participation in the primary of 1924.

Bright Spots in Shadowland

SOME of the most spectacular feats of horsemanship that have ever been staged for the making of a motion picture are those which will be filmed for "Under the Red Robe," Cosmopolitan's picturization of Stanley Weyman's famous story. For the riding scenes in the picture, the services of more than 100 cavalry horses will be used, a score of which will be "stunt" horses. The most thrilling of these riding scenes is said to be one which entails a realistic duel on horseback between Gil de Berault, impersonated by John Charles Thomas, the noted American singer who is making his motion picture debut, and the Duke of Orleans, played by William H. Powell. Another thrill is furnished when Berault and his mount make a flying leap from a swinging drawbridge.

KING TUT AGAIN.

NOW that the American public is thinking in terms of King Tut, Maurice Tourneur promises to give them something that will keep the Egyptian thought in its mind with the release of "The Brass Bottle." According to plans now underway, this production will boast of the most elaborate Egyptian interiors yet offered on the screen. Not least in importance will be the beautiful Egyptian girls. Tourneur scouts are already searching the highways and byways for these "types." Two players already selected for the picture are Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall.

FOX GETS CLIFTON.

THE picture rights to "Six Cylinder Love," now playing at the Tremont, have been bought by William Fox, who has selected Elmer Clifton as director. Mr. Clifton's work as producer and director of "Down to the Sea in Ships," was impressive enough to catch the eye of Fox, and it was only a matter of a single conference that brought about the affiliation of Clifton with the Fox Film Company. The cast has not yet been selected.

JOINT RECEPTION TO IRISH MISSION

The Irish societies of South Boston will combine in tendering a reception to members of the Irish Republican Mission in the Municipal Building, South Boston, Sunday evening. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Massachusetts Irish Republic Defence Committee, and will be for the benefit of the Irish Relief Mission.

Mrs. Hannah Sheehy Skeffington, widow of the Irish martyr, Mrs. Mary McWorter, former national president of the Hibernians Ladies' Auxiliary and Major Michael J. O'Kelly of New York, who has been a life-long supporter of Irish liberty, were speakers, and Dr. Joseph P. Tynan of South Boston, chairman of the defence committee, will preside.

A program of American and Irish music will be under the direction of Humphrey P. Anderson.

COAL DRIVERS SET STRIKE VOTE TONIGHT

Following the refusal of employers to grant a wage increase of $3 a week and a change of working conditions, Coal Teamsters' Union, Local No. 48, will meet tonight in Paine Memorial Hall, No. 11 Appleton street, to decide on the time to strike.

In addition to the $3 increase in wages, the teamsters demand reestablishment of the working conditions of 1920-21, which provides for payment to drivers of 50 cents a ton over the regular daily wage for handling coal, and starting wagons from the wharves at 8 o'clock in the morning instead of at 7 o'clock and 7:30 o'clock, as is now being done.

An offer of the employers to increase wages $2 a week, to change the basis of overtime pay to a quarter of an hour instead of a half hour and to pay 5 cents an hour to men trimming coal in ships above the rate paid wharf men was rejected.

LAUGHS AND PRAYS AS HE IS ELECTROCUTED

Columbus, O., April 13 (By International News Service)—Alternately laughing and praying, Stanley Forber, twenty-six, convicted of the murder of Patrolman Grannison P. Koehler, was electrocuted at the penitentiary today. Forber, with three other bandits, engaged in a gun battle with Columbus police. Koehler and one bandit were killed and another policeman wounded.

2,500 CADETS OF ENGLISH HIGH IN FIRST REVIEW

More than 2400 cadets of the English High School regiments marched in their first annual review today. There are two regiments of eighteen companies each, a drum corps of 120, and a sixty-eight piece band.

Lieutenant-Colonel F. C. Doyle and E. H. S. alumnus of the class of 1893, who has commanded the regiments, was in the reviewing stand. With him were Colonel G. H. Benyon, Nathaniel Young, director of the school, C. R. G. Spear, of '91, and Walter Downey, head master.

William Connell, an instructor, trained the excellent band which headed the parade.

The acting commanders of the two regiments, one of whom will be chosen colonely after the competitive drill on May 19, lead the march. Captain William Stern is the acting commander of the first regiment, and Captain Gordon H. Kunz is acting commander of the second.

A strictly military program has been instituted in the school, and the disciplinary measures are on a military basis. Uniformed cadets have replaced the masters who formerly patrolled the corridors during recesses.

"GHOST" INVADES OLD WORCESTER BUILDING

Worcester, April 13.—A ghost has invaded the old police station on Waldo street. At least William W. Sawyer, janitor of the Spanish War Veterans' quarters in the same building, says it has. He relates a thrilling experience with the spook prowler at midnight recently.

Sawyer says as he was going through one of the dark hallways, he perceived a white figure, with white hair, and whiskers, coming toward him with outstretched arms.

He stood still as the figure came closer to him. Suddenly he remembered words his mother told him in infancy if he ever met a ghost. They were, "O Lord, protect me." He says he uttered them and the ghost disappeared.

THE MEN'S STORE OF NEW ENGLAND

ENCYCLOPEDIA IS ATTACKED BY JEWS

New York, April 13.—The recently issued volumes of the Encyclopedia Britannica, covering the years from 1910 to 1921, which treated with contempt the war record of Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, were today subjected to a bitter attack by representatives of the American Jewry on a charge of "falsifying history and fanning the flames of race prejudice."

The attack was based on a summary entitled "The Jewish Question," which formed part of the encyclopedia's article on Poland. The article is credited in the encyclopedia to Geoffrey Drage of the Royal Statistical Society, who during the war was attached to the military intelligence section of the British war office.

OPPOSED POLISH FREEDOM.

The objection of the Jews to the article are summarized in the current issue of the Jewish Tribune. The Jews took exception to such statements as the following, which appeared in the encyclopedia's treatise:

"One of the most important questions to be considered by the new Polish State is that of the Jews. . . . . The vast majority are Eastern Jews who in language, religion and customs differ from the population.

"The Tsarist government drove the Jews out of Russia, but gave them exceptional advantages in Poland. These Litvaks (as they were called) openly professed themselves the partisans of Russia and sounded the Jewish press which set to work openly to fight against Polish autonomy.

UNFIT FOR SOCIETY.

"During and after the war the hostility to the Jews was increased by the fact that in the German occupation the Jew was the willing tool of the invader, and by the close connection between the Jews and Bolshevism. Hostility to the Jews was marked in 1918 and 1919 by excesses in which some 200 to 300 have in fact been killed, but which have been enormously exaggerated by the Jewish press.

"They form an immense mass of squalid and helpless poverty. . . They are driven into all sorts of illicit and fraudulent practices. . . They are unfit for the modern economic world for want of education and for Western society because of their habits and want of cleanliness. They are devoted to their strange old religion, but as they grow rich their piety is destroyed by wealth, and they take too little interest in their poorer brethren. No one who knows Poland can be surprised at the Polish attitude or at the desire of the Poles to be rid of this corrupting influence."

SOVIET SCORES BAN AGAINST MME. KALENIN

By International News Service

Moscow, April 13.—Mme. Kalenin, wife of the president of the Soviet Republics, who planned to go to the United States in the interest of the Russian Famine Fund, had completed her final preparations for her trip when news came she could not enter the United States.

She expected to leave Sunday.

"We received word on Thursday from M. Dobrolfsky, our representative in New York that the State Department would refuse to vise Mme. Kalenin's passport admitting her to the United States," said Karovin. "We had received a telegram from Munich saying that Mme. Kalenin's passport would be respected. Accepting this as final she immediately began preparations for the journey. If Mme. Kalenin's visit to America in the interest of children who were made homeless through famine, can be regarded as political, then everything is political."

HEARING FOR COUPLE ACCUSED OF MURDER

Salt Lake City, April 13.—John Browning, Jr., and his cousin, Mariner Browning, will be given a hearing today on the charge of murdering Benjamin F. Ballantyne, former bank teller. Attorneys for the Brownings said they would present a motion for their release under bonds.

DANCE CONTINUES DESPITE FLAMES

Seventy persons kept right on dancing in the Hotel Napoli, No. 86 Friend street, while smoke seeped into the dining room from the kitchen where fat boiling over onto the range started a fire which caused an estimated damage of $500. Even the firemen rushing through the room did not disturb the dancers.

WOMEN DEMAND JOINT OWNERSHIP

Des Moines, April 13.—The convention of the National League of Women Voters, in session here, voted to favor laws compelling women and men to share equally in all money and property acquired after marriage.

DESTROYERS' VISIT BOOMS U. S. TRADE

Washington, April 13.—American trade booms wherever the destroyers go. This fact is emphasized in figures given out unofficially on Turkish trade. When Rear Admiral Mark Bristol first arrived at Constantinople, America was trading with Turkey at the rate of $4,000,000 a year. Now it is said to be at the rate of $43,000,000.

HOUSE OF DAVID HEAD REPORTED DEAD

SUNSWEET prune Whip —with variations

the 2lb. carton

"Shake hands with health every day"

Prune Whip—everyone knows how good and good-for-health it is! But everyone does not know that Prune Whip is the most "willing" of all desserts—willing to "make itself" into a half dozen delicious variations.

Try the recipes below—but be sure you get Sunsweet Prunes, the pick of California's pack, in the new 2-lb. carton. It is the new way to buy prunes. Clean; compact; convenient: keeps the fruit fresh-flavored, too! Packed in three sizes of fruit—large, medium small—but all Sunsweet top-quality. Ask your grocer!

START off with the usual Prune Whip—the whip every woman knows how to make. Vary it by baking in a casserole and you have a dainty pudding—served hot or cold. Vary again by baking in a pastry shell. Result? A wondrous soufflé pie. Another time add a cupful of rice and you get a dessert both rich and nutritious. For example:

Sunsweet Prune Whip (uncooked). Place 1 cup Sunsweet Prune pulp in deep bowl; add 1 unbeaten egg white, ½ cup sugar; beat with whip egg beater until consistency of whipped cream. Fold in ½ cup chopped nuts (walnuts or pecans) and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pile in sherbet cups; serve very cold. This may be used also as a filling for cream puffs or little sponge cakes, or as a filling for layer cakes.

Sunsweet Prune Whip (cooked). Take 1 cup prune pulp, cooked, pitted Sunsweet Prunes rubbed through coarse sieve.) Beat whites of 3 eggs until stiff; add 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla; carefully fold in prune pulp and ¾ cup chopped walnuts. Pour in ungreased pudding dish; set in pan of hot water; bake in moderate oven until firm in center. Serve hot or cold with custard sauce made of yolks of eggs, or with whipped cream. If desired, walnuts may be omitted and cocoanut sprinkled over top before baking.

Sunsweet Prune Whip with Rice: Prepare Sunsweet Prune Whip (cooked) omitting walnuts; carefully fold in 1 cup cooked rice; bake as for plain prune whip. Serve hot or cold with custard sauce or with cream.

Sunsweet Prune Soufflé Pie: Follow directions for Sunsweet Prune Whip (cooked). Pile in baked pastry shell; bake in moderate oven 15 minutes.

Firestone

Will Not Increase Prices Until May 1st

Firestone Prices on Fabric and Cord Passenger Car Tires and Tubes, also Solid and Pneumatic Truck Tires Will Advance May 1st

The postponement of this price revision is possible only because of our realization of the price danger in the British Crude Rubber Restriction Act which became effective November 1, 1922. We were fortunate in our rubber purchases before the Restriction Act increased the price of crude rubber 150%.

We have always endeavored to champion the cause of better made tires delivered at lowest cost to the tire user by economical manufacturing and distribution. And we are glad of the opportunity to give the car owner the additional saving at this time.

Firestone Cords embody certain special processes which result in their producing mileage records, heretofore unheard-of in the industry. Among the more important of these superior methods are blending, tempering, air-bag cure and double gum-dipping.

Firestone Dealers are co-operating with us in our movement to supply your needs at present prices as long as their stock lasts and we have advised our dealers that we will supply them with additional tires this month only so far as our output will permit.

See the nearest Firestone Dealer. Purchase a set of these Gum-Dipped Cords. Prove for yourself their remarkable mileage advantages and easy riding qualities.

MR. HOOVER is head of the Department of Commerce that sent out the false statement about sugar shortage, upon which the grafters based their stealings.

It may occur to women that Mr. Hoover would be able to explain that sugar shortage, close at home, better than the world court, some distance off.

SELLS TROPHIES OF BERNHARDT TO PAY DEBTS

By International News Service.

Paris, April 12—Gold and silver [illegible] acquired by Sarah Bernhardt during her triumphal tours through Europe and America have been sold by her son Maurice to meet [illegible] incurred during the famous [illegible] final illness. It was learned [illegible].

Madame Bernhardt died despite [illegible] despite the large sums she had made upon the stage.

Maurice Bernhardt said he disposed to sell the relics cherished so greatly by his mother, but that it was necessary to raise funds to meet pressing creditors. The sales were made to a little antique shop on the exclusive Faubourg St. Germain neighborhood.

Sales were limited to gold and silver objects and were conducted secretly, probably to prevent creditors from putting seals on the house to prevent the removal of the items [illegible] possessions.

Among the trophies were a solid silver punch bowl with an engraved inscription, the gifts of a group of New York City theatrical men and actresses to commemorate Mme. Bernhardt's 50th performance at New York, June 14, 1906.

Another article was a solid silver drinking cup presented to Mme. Bernhardt at Boston in January, 1911. Each piece was sold for 2,500 francs [illegible] total cost of the old silver without taking into account the increased value from historic associations.

Mme. Sarah's silver plate, engraved with her crest, her "silver smelling salts bottle and mementoes of her visit to the Imperial Russian Court, engraved with dates and names of the donors were sold almost [illegible] their real value, without consideration of the sentimental worth.

CONVICT SHIP WEDDING TO BREAK 13 JINX

Today is Friday, the Thirteenth! Thirteen years ago he was married on Friday, the 13th.

Thirteen months ago William Menaugh joined the "Just Married" company, now playing at the Plymouth Theatre, which has thirteen members in the cast. "Just Married" is the thirteenth show he has been with.

And bad luck camped steadily on the trail of himself and his wife.

SEEK TO BREAK JINX.

So, today, in an effort to break the jinx Menaugh will celebrate his thirteenth wedding anniversary by remarrying his bride of thirteen years ago.

And to make sure of the job he and Mrs. Menaugh picked out Cell 13 of the famous old Convict ship "Success," now opening her last three days at Warren Bridge, before leaving Boston forever, as the scene of the ceremony.

WOMAN TO OFFICIATE.

Colonel Nellie M. Duncan of the Volunteers of America, one of the few ordained women ministers in this part of the country, has been selected to officiate, and at 12:13 today she will tetle the knot in the cell which, according to Captain D. H. Smith of the vessel, history has recorded as the luckiest spot on the noted old felon ship.

Vivian Martin has been asked to be bridesmaid, and Lowell Sherman best man. Other members of the company, all of whom have accepted invitations to attend, will be ushers and flower girls.

WERE FIRST TO MAKE JAZZ POPULAR

DIXIELAND BAND

Nick La Rocca, leader, with cornet, and Eddie Edwards, at piano, who originated jazz music.

ORIGINAL JAZZ BAND TO GIVE HUB CONCERT

It is now a matter of musical history as to who popularized the word "Jazz." In 1916 Nick LaRocca and Eddie Edwards organized the first white boys' band in New Orleans, and they were the first to call their music jazz, and their band the Dixieland Jazz Band.

That same year LaRocca composed a bizarre dance number and called it the "Barnyard Blues." Its fame spread and the Victor people persuaded the young musicians to record the composition as the first jazz record ever made. That pioneer jazz record carried jazz around the world, and now the Original Dixieland Jazz Band and its talented players are the favorites of two continents.

Recently LaRocca composed a fox trot and registered the title as "The King Tut Strut." It became the sensation of Broadway in a week and it will be heard in Boston the first time when the Original Dixieland Jazz Band plays at an after noon concert and society tea dance at the Copley Plaza Hotel on Saturday afternoon, with the music sent broadcast between 4 and 5:30 o'clock from the WNAC station.

The same evening the Original Dixieland Jazz Band augmented by the Broadway Syncopated Orchestra will give a public dance, appropriately entitled a "Genuine Jazz Jubilee" at Mechanics Hall. A feature of the evening at Mechanics Hall will be a Fox Trot Contest for the Dixieland trophy.

EGYPTIAN DENIES KING "TUT" CURSE

New York, April 13.—Princess Athene Pierides, who says she is a descendent of Cleopatra, is here from the Orient. She scouted the theory that a royal curse was responsible for the death of Lord Carnarvon. She said:

"It is all absurd. Surely we of Egypt know more about such things than those responsible for the story. We have many traditions, but no curse." The Princess also laughed at Conan Doyle's theory of spirits at the tomb of Tutankhamen. Her presence in this country is in connection with the Masonic exposition in Madison Square Garden, May 13.

MISSING MAINE BOY SOUGHT IN BOSTON

Four one-act comedy playlets are supplemented by novel and artistic musical divertisements. H. Davis Guitarist, shares honors with the Royal Club Orchestra, which is under the direction of B. Stoler. The production is being staged and directed by Hugh A. Wechsler.

SOMERVILLE ELKS' CEREMONY TONIGHT

The officers of Somerville Lodge of Elks will be installed this evening in the Elks' Home on Central street, that city. Charles F. J. McCormack grand trustee of the Elks of Cambridge, and John P. Brennan, also of that city, will conduct the ceremony. Officers to be installed are: Exalted ruler, George D. Elms; leading knight, Albert E. Hughes; loyal knight, William E. Kelley; lecturing knight, Herbert Sanderson; tyler, John Hinds; secretary, John S. McGowan; treasurer, Thomas M. Clancey; and trustee, Joseph F. Harney.

3-DECKERS WANTED BY CHELSEA MAYOR

Mayor Quigley of Chelsea celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the big Chelsea fire by urging a change in building laws which will permit three-deckers. Chelsea has a population of 10,000 more than at the time of the fire and the housing situation is declared acute.

IRISH FREE STATE "INFAMIES" SCORED

"The worst infamies of British imperialism are now functioning through the so-called Free State in Ireland. The English blew the Sepoys from the cannon's mouth, the Free Staters are now trying Republican prisoners and blowing them to pieces with bombs, as avowed acts of reprisal. The so-called Irish Free State is a monstrosity which shall not and cannot prevail."

This statement is issued by the Irish Republic Defence Committee of Boston, in definition of its position. Announcement is made of a mass meeting to be held in the Municipal Building, South Boston, next Sunday evening. Mrs. Hanan Shoby Skeffington and Peter Golden will speak.

PUPILS SAVE SCHOOL IN RANDOLPH FIRE

One hundred and twenty pupils of the North Randolph Grammar School, their teachers and neighbors, joined forces to combat a fire in the woods of North Randolph, which threatened the school building. The building, a new structure, is in the centre of a small clearing.

STORIES OF BOSTON TOWN

By Jo Swerling

LOTTA AND SARAH

The bell-boys at the Hotel Brewster on Boylston street whistle again as they scurry along the corridors. Elevator doors open and close with the utmost abandon, as of old. The chambermaids on one of the floors no longer speak in whispers as they pass the suite of Charlotte Mignon Crabtree.

As Sarah Bernhardt was dying in her house in Paris Lotta Crabtree was dying in her suite in Boston. The Divine Sarah succumbed. La Petite Lotta carries on. After five weeks of critical illness, during which physicians despaired of her life, Lotta Crabtree is about again. A nurse still remains in her suite night and day, still assists her as she comes down into the lobby of the hotel each day, but the danger is over.

The admirers of Crabtree called her the Bernhardt of America. No one knows better than Lotta herself that here only resemblance to Bernhardt lies in the fact that both were born out of the same time.

There is indeed a marked contrast in the way in which a trooper and a contrast their apples not only in the way they lived but in the way in which they prepared to take their final leave.

Fortune Estimated at $10,000,000

Sarah was penniless when she died. Lotta is reputed one of the richest women in Boston. Her fortune is estimated at $10 000 000.

The rent in Sarah's residence in Paris had not been paid for months when she died. Lotta was the hotel she lives in for many another. She has real estate in nearly every State on the coast" of the Harvard students, dential section, and is attended by the majority of the Catholic students.

Both pastor and police believe that the threat is that of a fault, aroused by the sight of the many people who attended the opening masses of the new church on Easter Sunday last. The letter has been turned over to handwriting experts for a possible clew.

The rectory of the church, where Fr. Ryan and his assistants, Fr. Dennis Murphy and Fr. William W. Gunn reside, is nearby on Holyoke street.

Sarah, for twenty years before her death, gave farewell tours. Even when she died, her house was staged with scenery for a motion picture she was doing. She played after she got her leg. She persisted after her entire left side was paralyzed. Partly blind, almost deaf, trembling with the aid of a cane, Sarah stepped on the grease paint, was wheeled onto the stage, and gave all that she had left—her glorious, never-to-be-forgotten voice.

Today Lotta with all her wealth of material means and memories, is alone in the world. Long ago her mother and her father died. She had one brother, Jack Crabtree, who used to run the Brewster Hotel. He died some years ago.

Lotta Retired 30 Years Ago

But Lotta retired more than thirty years ago in her prime, and has never since even been tempted to return to the stage. The present generation, if they know her at all know her only as a very quiet little old lady who lives at the Brewster Hotel. But the generation before dubbed her the "Dramatic Cocktail." She sang and danced and played herself into their hearts.

She was born in New York November 7, 1847 two years after Bernhardt came into the world. At seven she was the head of her own company, playing night stands throughout the mining centres in the West. That was when they began calling her "The Old Curiosity Shop," "Firefly," "Topsy," "Musette," "Bob," "Mignon," "Minuche," and her other triumphs, she is still La Petite Lotta.

In 1891 she retired. Even then she was a rich woman. Since then she has lived a secluded, cloistered life, so far removed from the public gaze that when she was lying critically ill, nobody knew about it and nobody took notice of it.

GUN, AUTO, HOOCH, CRIME TRINITY

FARE CUT RIDICULES OBJECTION RIDDLED

Hoke Smith Shows Railroad Earnings Increase When Rates Are Lowered

The efforts of railroads to prevent the introduction of the interchangeable mileage books on May 1 was assailed by former U. S. Senator Hoke Smith as "a hindrance to business of the United States" at the hearing in Federal Court on the petition of eastern railroads for a restraining injunction on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Mr. Smith appeared as counsel for those opposing the petition

MEANS MORE REVENUE.

"The claims of the railroads that they will lose revenue amounting to $45 000 000 annually, is ludicrous

"Hoke" Smith

The introduction of the interchangeable mileage books means that business firms will send out increased forces of salesmen. This means more business for the railroads and for the country, at large.

"Railroads who fight the new mileage books are hindrances to business. Their claims of loss of revenue are humbug."

Ex Senator Smith waxed warm at times and instead of directing his remarks to the three judges who heard the case, spoke directly to Attorney Charles F. Choate and his assistants sitting nearby.

He cited the case of the Baltimore & Ohio road issuing ten rides tickets at the rate of two cents a mile, against the regular rate of three cents and told of the increase of business that followed the reduction. This, he pointed out, showed that reductions work in favor of roads, rather than against them.

HEARING ENDED

"The interchangeable mileage books are not for people. They do not use them. When a rich family travels, it is generally as a tourist. They go to California or some other place. The business of America will benefit by these books. As I said before, it will enable business houses to branch out with more salesmen and, as a result, business will grow and with the growth of business, the railroads will get their share of benefit.

Attorney General Daugherty was represented at the hearing by an assistant Attorney. E. Satterlee Attorney P. J. Farrell represented the Interstate Commerce Commission

RIDICULES CHARGES OF WIFE

Sheppard, Malden Garage Man, Declares She Imagines "Vamp" Accusation

Three episodes featured the matrimonial turmoil of Henry Sheppard and his wife, Annie, of No. 198 Cross street, Malden, which reached its climax in the filing by the wife of a $50,000 alienation suit against Mrs. Elizabeth Hanscom, a neighbor.

[illegible] the Sheppards Irish terrier [illegible] a soldier and Sheppard conveyed his property to his wife to forestall [illegible] for damages

[illegible] Mrs Sheppard awoke to find a burglar in the bedroom and there after branded Henry a coward for not catching him.

[illegible] Jake Isaacson, a shoemaker who uses Sheppard's garage, left three pairs of worn pumps in the garage, and Sheppard says his wife became so jealous that before the quarrel ended the judge had been called

WELCOMES CHANCE.

Mrs. Sheppard alleges a kissing window flirtation between her husband and Mrs. Hanscom of No. 17 Bennet avenue, which existed during four years, and was punctuated with Sunday joy rides which she stated at home to pump gasoline for customers.

"Pure imagination" says Sheppard. "My wife thinks everything I do with is vamping me. She's been running things since I transferred the property to her, and I'll welcome a chance to tell the truth in court.

"Our youngest son refused to work for me, and she bought him an automobile to stay out late at night with. I complained that it took up portable space in the garage, and she told me to look out or I'd lose my job as manager.

"I built the garage with my own hands and money seven years ago

CALLS HER A "VAMP."

"She comes running out into the yard when I talk with the neighbors' daughter. She sent Mrs. Hanscom's little children home one day with their ears full of epithets. I hate to talk against my wife, but jealousy is unfounded."

Mrs. Sheppard said: "Elizabeth Hanscom is a vamp. I'm going to put a stop to it before she breaks up more homes. She used to talk from her kitchen window and shout 'Yoo-hoo' to Mr. Sheppard's answer. Just a minute sweetheart

Harris Adler, Mrs. Sheppard's lawyer, and a neighbor, keeps a coupe in the Sheppard garage. To day he arrived, waved a cheery good morning to Sheppard and turned his back on him to converse with a client. Which left the brave man's hand to uncork "the truth."

SEES RECORD IN DAISY SALES FOR LEGION

This afternoon Dr. E. J. McCarthy, chairman of the American Legion "Daisy Drive," which started today and will end tomorrow night, reported that all records would be broken. This statement was based on the sales made as compared with last year.

Dr. Revere post was the first to report to State headquarters that it had disposed of its quota within an hour and requested another and a million was on the way to Boston in an automobile [illegible] all the drives could be spared.

Before noon several other posts had put in claims for more flowers. Legion officials said the indications were that every post in the State would exhaust its quota. State Commander William H. Doyle said the campaign for the welfare fund of the Legion was exceeding his fondest expectations and he was exceedingly gratified.

The good people of the State have not forgotten the deserving needs of service men," said Dr. McCarthy. "There is no use to all the hard work we have been doing to make it a larger success than ever in fine. It seems as if everybody is buying a daisy. The man who does not show the popular decoration is the conspicuous person on the street.

SEEK $50,000.

"We want $50,000 this time. We expended the $40,000 we raised last year in a worth while way. Early reports indicate that we are not going to be disappointed. Here is all we ask. Put a daisy today and on other tomorrow. Contribute an amount you can. The Daisy Driver will thank you. We have an adequate supply. We defy our friends to exhaust it."

Midday reports from the hundreds of girls covering the Boston points showed a large increased sale over last year and more liberal receipts. Persons who desire to give larger amounts than the "Daisy Drivers" are supposed to receive may send checks to the Daisy Drive fund, American Legion, State House, or John C. Heyer, Federal National Bank.

It really doesn't pay to "shop around" for silk stockings.
NO matter where she buys her silk stockings, every woman looks for the same three qualities: lustre, long wear and snug fit. But she cannot always be sure of getting them if she just "shops around," picking up a pair or two wherever a particularly low price catches her eye.
It's much safer to stick to one brand, when you have found the right one. That's why so many women buy all their silk hosiery at Chandler's.
You will find, too, that Century Brand stockings are always the same—full-fashioned, lustrous, smart. And you'll appreciate the real economy of Century Brand at $1.95 a pair.

GENARO WINNER OF A $3,000 JUDGMENT

New York, April 13.—A judgment for $3,000 against the Madison Square Garden Corporation in favor of Frankie Genaro, former world's flyweight champion, was entered today in the supreme court.

Genaro contended that after the corporation had won the championship from him in a contest in Madison Square Garden on July 4, 1917, it agreed to pay him $3,000 if he would not fight for the championship for a year. Genaro's lawyers say the corporation has refused to pay the money.

THIRTEEN MORE ENTER FOR BIG RUN

Thomas Kanaly announces the names of seven more entries to the Marathon. These bring the total to 17.

Among the entries received are those of Lester Jackson, Ausable Payne, Gustave Nelson, Walter Hill, Harry Greb, the management of Frank Marlowe, and the latter immediately determined to have Wilson reinstated. He informed Rickard of his willingness to go through with the original agreement to fight Greb.

Now that Wilson has squatted on the penitent's bench he will be restored to the fold by the commission. His stubbornness was the only bar to his being allowed to fight.

Wilson Reinstated; Will Take on Greb

Johnny Wilson, the world's middleweight champion, has finally agreed to go through with his fight with Harry Greb under the auspices of Tex Rickard.

Harry Greb

A year ago last September Wilson and Greb signed articles in New York, but later Wilson repudiated the agreement and this brought about his indefinite suspension by the boxing commission. The long vacation was costly to the champion, for he tossed aside thousands of dollars.

A few weeks ago Wilson signed under

RICKARD DENIES HE IS PILOT OF FIRPO

New York, April 13—Tex Rickard denies emphatically the assertion made in some quarters that he has Luis Firpo tied to a one year contract as his manager. The truth of the matter is that the Madison Square Garden promoter has an agreement with the giant Argentinian over this stretch of time, but only as a prospective opponent for Champion Jack Dempsey.

Tex Rickard.

The only other contract Rickard has made with Firpo is his May 12 engagement with Jack McAuliffe, 3d, one of two star fifteen rounders in connection with the Mak Fund show at the Yankee Stadium. Joe Willard and Floyd Johnson is the other main event. Other than that Firpo's old patron to Rickard cease, with the exception of the Dempsey match.

"These insinuations and, in some cases, lying statements about me having signed Firpo to a contract as his manager have about gone far enough," declared Rickard. "I am not Firpo's manager, never intended to be, and it is a matter of record that I never managed a pug, as I could have signed some of the best boxers in the country, but I am strictly a promoter, and I am not in the habit of working both ends from the middle.

"My contract with Firpo for one year binds him to a match with Dempsey, and all I have to do is to promote the big undertaking."

RED SOX BATTING SLUMP GETS MANAGER CHANCE'S GOAT

REVENGE ON READING NOW THE BATTLE CRY

By CHARLES E. PARKER.

Reading Pa., April 13.—Frank Chance's "Long Chances" were out today to commit murder, arson and mayhem upon the Reading team that interrupted their long winning streak

That is to say, Manager Chance's locals in the engagement at Harrisburg yesterday, ran into the hearts of the Boston team, for it was expected to enter the approaching league week without a mark upon its arm storming as it does and when the Reading array ran and batted in the offerings of Curt Fullerton in the tenth inning of the game at Harrisburg that expectation was scattered to the four winds and several adjoining cyclones.

The thing that makes them mostly is not Fullerton's clever pitching exactly but the failure of the team as a whole to hit the ball heavily.

It's that battle the Red Sox had to-day that has averaged better than .300 in team batting power. Against Reading at Harrisburg, the team average was less than 150, and hitting strength of that order will not get them very far in the league pennant rounds.

That it was they proposed to find just to be generous in the matter crash the odds are with more than even that their former game in today's contest and their games immediately following will give the Sox side of the book more than an even break of today's game.

Started Off Like a Regular Honest to Goodness Contest.

The initial engagement of the two clubs started off like a regular honest to goodness old fashioned contest.

For four innings Curt Fullerton mowed down the Sox batters in order and only two errors and a single prevented Pat Moran's men from duplicating that feat for Reading.

In the fifth however Chick Fewster got another hobo start of his career and the two runs which followed that error proved a trifle more than enough for the Reading runs.

Got Them Back in the Same Inning.

The Red Sox got their two back in the same inning three if they wish to none too

That's possible, but hardly able, as everybody will be out if two of the last three fail to bat. The team should be on its toes each for all the reasons plain why

CALZA WAS MIGHTY LUCKY TO WIN AGAINST KOTSONAROS

BOUT LASTS TWO HOURS AND TWENTY MINUTES

By JACK CONWAY.

George Calza, Italian heavyweight wrestling champion, was mighty lucky to win over George Kotsonaros, Greek titleholder, in two hours and twenty-two minutes at the Old Howard's international wrestling carnival at the Boston Arena.

It was Kotsonaros' bout on points by the proverbial mile up to the time that a break in the battling turned the tide of battle in favor of the Italian.

The Greek had his opponent groggy from a series of headlocks. Calza was dizzy and was unable to show his usual amount of class. He was still game, however, and kept battling furiously in an effort to gain an advantage. He finally scored with a flying mare. At the time he was close to the ropes and he hurled Kotsonaros over the ropes. The Greek crashed with tremendous force against the press table. He landed on his left shoulder.

Kotsonaros was in great pain, but insisted upon getting back into the ring. After a few minutes rest, he resumed wrestling. Calza was quick to realize that [illegible] to Kotsonaros was fatal. He forced the issue and when the Greek found that his left arm was useless he notified Referee Sam Stein of this fact and the latter stopped the bout and awarded the decision to Calza.

There was an uproar when Calza tossed Kotsonaros over the ropes and out of the ring. The Greek's supporters rushed to the ringside and claimed [illegible] took a large [illegible] of time to recover.

If it had not been for the injury he suffered when he crashed to the press table after being hurled twelve feet through the air, Kotsonaros would probably have won. He had the best of the battling from the start. He completely outclassed Calza at almost every department of the game. It was only the Italian's almost super-human strength that enabled him to break away from some of the terrific headlocks which Kotsonaros kept clamping on with deadly precision and in quick succession in the latter part of the contest.

Kotsonaros' headlock had Calza dizzy and dazed. It wore down the Italian to a point where he could not appear as though he would be able to weather the storm much longer.

Then followed his wild, desperate surge, the flying mare which sent Kotsonaros whirling through space only to crash with a deadening thud against the press table outside of the ropes.

When the wrestlers entered the ring, Calza received the greatest ovation, but as the match wore on and it was apparent that Kotsonaros, outweighed by twenty-five pounds, was winning, sentiment switched. The fans began rooting for the Greek to win.

When the two-hour mark was passed and Kotsonaros' aggressive tactics, backed by the crushing headlock, were wearing Calza down, most of the fans rooted for the Greek.

Calza's supporters were rather downcast as they felt that their idol had finally met his master. Then came the lucky break that saved the day for Calza.

It would appear to us that a wrestler who tosses his opponent out of the ring and makes it impossible for the latter to continue should be disqualified if there was such a rule. Kotsonaros would today be credited with a victory which he won by clean, hard grappling.

The wrestler against whom the infraction is committed is penalized and the one who pulls the rough stuff is given a win to which he is not entitled.

Stanley Stasiak, great Polish wrestler, gave a great exhibition of grappling and won over Mike Parlish, Italian giant, in 15 minutes. A body hold did the trick. We should like to see what Stasiak could do to Calza.

Ernest Siegfried, German Oak, lived up to his reputation as a great wrestler and won over Henry Lamayer, Austrian champion, in 17 minutes and 15 seconds. He gained the victory by a toe hold and wrist lock.

Pat McGrath Irish champion, disposed of Lawson Finkbinin of Atlanta in 7 minutes and 17 seconds by a head scissors and wrist lock.

Frank Yuska, Lithuanian champion, defeated Joe Savoldi, world's champion title holder, outlied for thirty minutes without either being able to score a fall.

Mayor Curley and Fire Commissioner Glynn were at the ringside and got plenty of thrills from the feature bout.

* * *

Incidentally, this writer named all of the winners, which gives us a record of 54 wins against 7 losses for 1923 and 33 straight victories since February 6. You may try to break this world's record if you care to do so.

50-Mile Marathon for Veteran Runner

Bill Prouty, of Dorchester, veteran of many Marathons, has mapped out a run for himself that is sure to go down in athletic history. Prouty, who admits he is 43, but says he feels like 20, is going to show the boys something in the way of long runs and he is going to do it before they start on their Ashland to Boston grind. Here is Prouty's plan: He will start from the B. A. A. clubhouse on Exeter street, April 18, at 9 in the morning, trot out to Stevens corner, Ashland, and then, just to make it interesting, will turn right around and beat it back over the 25-mile course to the B. A. A. headquarters again, making a total of 50 miles for the day. Prouty is confident he can make the run. He is no novice in the long-distance game, having been teamed up with Pat Dineen when this pair went over to New York some ten or twelve years ago and smashed all records up to the 24 hour mark. And not only that, but they held their title against all comers for years and years.

HALF A HUNDRED IN THE CATHEDRAL RUN

Already a half hundred names have reached the Cathedral Young Men's Catholic Association Club house for the annual ten mile road race tomorrow afternoon.

The race will start from in front of the Cathedral Club Building.

CHAMPION TILDEN WINS FROM RICE

The second set was a thriller. Rice led all the way until the score was 10 all. Not until then was Tilden able to break through Rice's service and took the next two sets.

By ART CURLY

With two cup-ties and four good matches in each of the two local leagues slated for tomorrow, soccer enthusiasts will have an easy time to pick out an afternoon's entertainment.

The young Roxbury outfit will travel to Forge Village to do battle with the Abbot Worsted Juniors in the third round of the National Amateur Cup series, and expect to bring home the bacon.

Bill Strachan

However, the Abbot second team is a classy, smooth-working outfit and recently displayed their strength by trimming the strong St. George A. A. goals to 0. Therefore, it would seem that Bill Strachan and his sidekicks, Lute Shutto are in for a warm afternoon's session.

The Clan Sutherland aggregation will make a desperate attempt to regain their lost prestige as a winning outfit by applying a fresh coat of whitewash on the St. George A. A. at Medford in the fourth round of the State Cup competition.

Arlington Shoot April 19

The Arlington Rifle Club plans an active outdoor season, and next Tuesday, April 19 an all day shoot will be held over the club range at the Munroe Farm on Lowell street.

VARGUS AND WHELAN TO STRENGTHEN EAGLES

Bill Vargus and Gus Whelan have succeeded in satisfying the scholastic requirements and are again eligible to play baseball, and have reported with the Eagle squad for practice.

The return of Vargus means that the Eagle pitching staff will be materially strengthened. Vargus is one of the most promising of the younger pitchers. Last Spring he pitched a sterling game against Georgetown. Boston lost the game by a 2 to 0 score, but the reason for defeat was not from pitching, but the lack of proper support.

Coach Henriksen intends to use Vargus against Northeastern tomorrow, or against the Braves on Monday. Mullowney would be the logical man to send against the Braves, but his poisoned neck is likely to prove too great a handicap for him to take the mound against the big league batsmen.

If Vargus is selected to pitch against the Braves, there is little doubt that he will acquit himself with credit. He has speed, a wide variety of curves, and plenty of confidence.

While the work of McIntire at first base is above criticism, it is probable that Gus Whelan will be given the regular assignment. Last year, Whelan alternated at first base with Captain "Jocko" Halligan. He has had much experience as a first baseman with amateur teams, and because of this experience, may be given the preference over McIntire. McIntire is a valuable man anywhere in the infield, and will not fade out because of Whelan's return.

The work of the heavy hitting outfield is a source of great satisfaction to the coach. In the Rhode Island game, two of the outer garden men, Wilson and Darling, drove the ball almost onto the Heights for four bases each. Tony Comerford leads the batting, and shows no sign of weakening.

Frank Sullivan, who caught his first game, is a fine backstop. His bullet-like peg to the bags make stealing bases a dangerous job for anyone lacking the speed of a frightened deer. He is rather slow on the bases, however.

The coach spent the afternoon trying to get his men to work more smoothly for the remaining home contests. The team looks good, but there are a few defects to be remedied. A little more practice should make the infield, composed as it is of star men, one of the most efficient in college ranks.

The paid attendance for the first home game was the largest ever recorded on Alumni Field for an opener. This indicates greater interest in the work of the Eagle nine.

MAXWELL MILLER No. 86 Pra'rie Ave'nue Revere

I was bored by the story of the artist, who caught pneumonia because of the realism of the Winter scene he had painted. I was consoled at the account of the painter who drew so realistic a picture of a hen that she laid three eggs beneath the easel. Those fellows are mere impressionists. I am the master of realism. I painted a piece of wood the other day in imitation of marble. It was so real that when I placed it in water it sank to the bottom.

"I work in an office in Woburn and we have the best trained fly there that there is in the whole world. Every day for dinner he has a large steak and he eats every bit of it. When I want a good crease I just say, "Bunny," the fly will be coming right over. I point to the word and he scrambles with his left foot, until the word is erased. Then he brushes his paper clean with his right wing.

"After that he flies over to the file a distance of about 3 feet and again. He sleeps in a cardboard box and every day at 4 o'clock he takes off the cover and goes in the box. If I don't put the cover on right away he flies up and says buy shoe fer until I do.

"I challenge anyone to show me a better trained fly than that and I trained him myself."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

The Orchid

WHEN folks find out that I am and that, I love to hear their praises of iris blue or rose and rue and jolly English dahlias. If asters gaze up at the rays or lilies have their inning, it's great to know just how to grow these plants to make a winning. I long about to hear them spout their lengthy Latin titles. It's fun to bear their discourse queer concerning tulips vitals. But when they get undone, unset on details microscopic, and when they scowl and fuss and howl, I know just what a chair topic. For high or low, where'er you go, no florist's so benighted but what one plant can make him rant and get him quite excited. The orchid streams through all their dreams, or so I judge to hear on them claim that kings have loved the things, and queens have lingered near and. I never met an orchid yet, but life has not been dreary, for violet and mignonette have had no pathway cheary. For fifty years I've shed on tears for these eerie creatures; to me, poor gink, the leafy pink has quite as pleasing features. For here and there and everywhere I find it bravely blowing, while some bright chap must cross the map to catch the orchid growing. In far Brazil men get a thrill when to its lair they chase it. They bark their shins and risk their skins in order to embrace it. So I opine it's much too fine to mix with common posies, with hollyhocks and four o'clocks and sweet, old fashioned roses. They say it's true that in Peru grow orchids strangely scented, but to my nose the sweet red rose beats all the scents invented.

ANECDOTES OF THE FAMOUS

A Scotsman came to London and, unable to find a hotel to put him up, accepted the offer of an Englishman he came across to be put up at the latter's house. Next morning, the Englishman asked:

"Well, did you sleep well?"

"Fine!" replied the Scotsman. "Like your supper last night?"

"Grand."

"Breakfast all O. K.?"

"Splendid!"

The Englishman hesitated—he, too, seems to have had Scotch blood in him.

"Well," he said, "what—er—what about a pound?"

"Man," cried the Scotsman, "that would be a godsend."

Remember the Time—

By Jack Casey

MEN liked picket fences on their street 'cause on Saturday nights they found 'em easy to get home on? An' how horrified some folks were at the man down the street who drank continually an' came home clutchin' picket fences every night in the week. An' how folks talked about his havin' lost his job because "he drank." An' some women were so timid they'd faint if they saw a guy rushin' the growler.

There was a mission at yer church an' seats had been reserved down front for a bunch of especially bad roughnecks the good pastor was endeavorin' to convert into better ways. An' the night they were arrivin' yer Uncle Pete happened along an' totally unconscious joined their ranks bent on havin' a good seat down front. An' along he went, big as life itself, while the church uttered until he was "rescued."

Lizzie Murrey used to call on yer Aunt Maggie and Rosella an' she'd always say, "Glory be to goodness Lizzie we know where we'll be a year from today." An' eventually yer aunts was in New York an' Lizzie was right where she was the year before. A rich man always had a big high iron fence around his estate an' in the Winter the coachman had to shovel sidewalks all around it an' you was glad yer wasn't rich. Or a coachman's son, so you'd have to help.

Fancy thimbles came out of old rose and blue colors an' they was made of bone. The smartest pupil in ninth grade got a medal an' it was always a girl. An' the boys would say, "Sissy, that's all she does, study—fine white who wants an old medal, any way."

Yer used to go around an' take orders with the grocery boy in vacation time just for the ride in the grocery wagon. An' he'd let you drive sometimes, which was thrilling. Yer'd rush into the house if yer saw a buggy outside, an' excited, an' ask: "Who is it?" Or "Is somebody here?" an' be all disappointed if it was somebody callin' down stairs or next door. Yer rode in a surrey at night with lights on! How he polished her always, first on a Saturday. If another turnout passed yer house, an' [illegible] yer wanted to whip it up to speed.

Medbury Says---

By John P. Medbury

THE first thing that a rich man does when he feels sick is to call seven or eight doctors into consultation and let them guess what's the matter with him

ONCE in a while it takes the physicians too long to agree on the ailment that the patient is well by the time they get through arguing

ONE physician told a fellow he couldn't possibly live until morning, and when the next day came he was still alive. Then he had to commit suicide so as not to embarrass the doctor.

MILLIONAIRES are lucky, they can enjoy any kind of an illness they want; but a poor man has no choice, he has to have whatever disease he can afford

HE goes into a hospital with his heart set on appendicitis, but after he sees how expensive it is he changes his mind to adenoids.

OF course we have clinics, but what we need is an up-to-date hospital, where we can get credit.

IT would be pretty nice to be able to get your tonsils taken out upon as long as their credit you get

STILL, can you imagine a collector coming to your house on the first of the month and saying, "Good morning, Mr. Mayer! You're two payments behind on your appendix."

THEN Mr. Mayer would say, "Sure, but I'm pretty near paid up on my last adenoid."

THERE'S one thing about it, if you didn't keep up the monthly payments on your tonsils they couldn't very well put them back.

THEY couldn't make the payments too easy or people would be having things taken out just from force of habit.

THEY'D be getting operated upon as long as their credit was good.

YOU'D naturally have to give them references. Very few doctors would touch a tonsil or move an adenoid unless some property holder O. K.'d the bill

MOST physicians arent in a financial position to gamble with your appendix

WE have furniture on credit purchase plans, on time and build homes for a third down, so why shouldn't we have operations on the partial payment plan?

THE ENEMIES OF WOMEN By BLASCO IBANEZ

Start Here Today This Engrossing Story of Life and Love from the Master Pen of One of the World's Greatest Novelists

By Vicente Blasco Ibanez,
Author of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and Other Novels of World Renown

LUBIMOFF noticed two Italian soldiers looking at him from the sidewalk around the "Cumembert." They were a couple of bersaglieri, dressed in gray, with little round hats decked out in cock's plumes. Noticing that the Prince was looking at them they became embarrassed, turned their backs as though ashamed, and walked away, but not without smiling first and raising their hands to their much beplumed hats.

The Prince recalled what Don Marcos had told him. Oh, yes! They are Estola and Pistola, changed into soldiers! They had come on leave to see their families. They were going up to the Colonel's house in the evening to pay their respects to their former "Lord." They seemed taller and more vigorous. A few months of war had been sufficient to transform them from adolescence into maturity. In every man there was a soldier.

Just as he was getting up to take a walk around the terraces he saw hurrying toward the cafe a gentleman, violently waving to him, and then had to stop to fasten his glasses more securely.

It took some time for the Prince to recognize him. He guessed who it was more by the tone of his voice than by his features. Dear old Novos! The months that had gone by had left a deeper imprint on him than on the rest. He was no longer the young man preoccupied with worldly pomp, who used to consult the Colonel about the merits of various tailors and hatters.

He had returned to the slavery of baggy-kneed trousers and ready-made neckties. His beard was full grown and bushy. He was still as young as ever in his voice, his eyes, and his lively and clumsy gestures; but he was dressed, not to say disguised, as an old man.

The professor was more effusive than the rest on seeing the Prince. He kept blessing the happy chance which brought Lubinoff to him through his meeting with Don Marcos shortly before.

"If you had waited two days longer, Prince, I would'nt have had the pleasure of seeing you. I am going back to my country day after tomorrow. I have had enough now of Monte Carlo. When I think of what I've lost here! Money, dreams, everything held dear in life."

Michael showed discretion. He suspected his friend had had some unexpected disillusionment, some deception, such as one must forget not to be continually tormented by it. He remembered Valeria, and saw nothing in the professor's appearance to indicate the slightest trace of contact with that lady. He was a ruin, a dry dead tree; the bird that formerly sang in the branches must have flown away long since. Novos was equally discreet. He looked at the other man's uniform, but he spoke in a general way, with vague regrets, only of what had taken place during the last few months.

"What extraordinary things have taken place! How many friends of ours have died! Life has finally become one of those dramas in which one dies at the end of the last act."

The Prince guessed that Novos was thinking of Alicia and in order not to give him pain refrained from mentioning her. As a matter of fact he was indeed thinking of the Duchess, but she was merely a point of departure before he came to the other woman with whom his memory was constantly occupied.

At last he spoke, giving full rein to his melancholy. He could tell the Prince everything because he was the only man who knew his secret. (He had told the Colonel and even Spadoni the same thing, on lamenting his misfortune.) And he broke into despairing recriminations against Valeria.

She had become a different woman. She was no longer interested in "lands of love," where women marry without dowries. Since the Duchess' death she had become a candidate for marriage. Her hand would bring with it more than 300,000 francs. The professor had found himself jilted and forgotten. How he had groveled before her when the truth was known; what shameful efforts he had made to remedy what he had considered at the outset a woman's passing whim! He hated to remember moments such as those.

Prince and the Duchess de Delille

"It is all ended, Prince. At present she is crazy about an American officer and will finally marry him. No one counts here except the Americans. Everything is for them, even love. The humblest little milliner considers herself disgraced if she hadn't a soldier from the United States to promenade with in the evening. Every afternoon she and the other man dance in the hotels of La Condamine, or right here in the Cafe de Paris."

Michael stopped as though some one had touched him on the shoulder. He did not see any one behind him, but his eyes, wandering over the groups sitting at the tables, met something which made his voice tremble.

"It is she, Prince."

Michael would have recognized her. He saw two ladies, escorted by two American officers, entering the cafe. One of them was Valeria, dressed with gay and showy elegance, as though anxious to compensate in a moment for years of frugality and privation.

Against the soft twilight the cafe windows began to gleam with a reddish glow. One after another, the large lamps within were lighted. To the Prince's ears came the voluptuous wailings of violins.

"Life has changed very greatly since you went away, Prince. Every one feels a desperate hunger for amusement. The first thing that peace brought back to life was the tango."

Then Novos began to think about himself.

"What can I do here. I am poor. Everything I possessed in my country I have dropped here in the Casino. I have studied the mysteries of the ocean enough. How dearly it has cost me! I have had my little dream, and now I am going to resume my ill-paid work back there as a day laborer in science."

He thought once more of her.

"Did you notice . . . ? The poor Duchess, who made her what she is now is lying up there in her grave, and here she is dancing only a few months after her death."

He felt the harsh indignation, the sense of outraged morality, that all who have been scorned experienced.

Suddenly Angry

His anger grew so strong that he got up from his chair. The woman had seen him, and might think that he is pursuing her, that he is waiting for her to come out, in order to entreat her. Never; he had had enough of certain humiliations which he did not care to remember!

He hurriedly said good-by. They would see each other again soon. Don Marcos had invited him to dinner at the little house in Beausoleil. The Colonel was sure that his visit would please the Prince.

He grasped Lubinoff's hand and did not seem to notice it was the wooden one. His eyes and his thoughts were on the cafe windows, ablaze in mid-afternoon. Through them the cadenced murmur of the violins was passing. As he walked away he still repeated his protest.

"The poor Duchess up there forgotten. . . . And the other woman. What a scandal! I am glad I'm going away soon, and will never see her again."

On remaining alone, the Prince left his table. Don Marcos was doubtless telling the news of his arrival to everyone he met, and Michael was afraid that other less interesting persons would appear.

As he walked along he noticed something which he had not seen before when he was with the Colonel. The United States flag was floating above all the buildings. In the city streets there were as many signs in English as in French. There were American soldiers everywhere.

Lubinoff's uniform and that of the other French fighters were lost in the great flood of men dressed in mustard color. The light automobiles of the American army passed incessantly. They were everywhere.

Monaco seemed to have been conquered by the troops of the Great Republic; a good-natured and kindly conquest which made the conquered smile. It was the same in Nice and everywhere on the Riviera. The Prince recalled his brief stay in Paris a few days before. There he saw Americans just as here. How many are they? What superhuman power had been able to create in a few months this army which though of recent birth, seemed to fill all space?

THE GIRL WHO'S SHY

AND DOESN'T KNOW HOW TO ENTERTAIN

By Beatrice Fairfax,

Who Occupies a Unique Position in the Writing World as an Authority on the Problems of Girls.

"WHAT shall I do when a young man comes to spend the evening with me?" writes Sarah. "I met a nice young man at a dance and he said he would like to see me again. So I asked him to come up to spend an evening some time. And a week later he telephoned and asked if I were going to be home. That sounded as if he were interested enough to be my friend if I knew how to go about making a friend of him.

"I've a nice little home which I share with my mother and younger brother. Generally mother stays to meet a caller, sits and talks for fifteen or twenty minutes and then smilingly says that she knows the young folks will excuse her if she goes to do some writing or reading, or something.

"So far so good.

"But the minute mother gets out of the room, things drag. I don't know what to talk about. I'd feel silly starting the phonograph and acting as if I couldn't do a thing but dance. The evening is years long. The young man endures it until eleven. Sometimes my brother comes in and things pick up again for a little while.

"Almost never does a young man come a second time. They may take me out a couple of times to theatre or the movies. But even there I can't hold the men I seem to attract. I don't put it down to my being unwilling to indulge in 'petting parties.' I don't think that has so much to do with it as that I just don't know how to entertain. Can you prescribe for me? Is it that I'm stupid—or only shy and awkward?"

Sarah—and all the Sarahs who share this almost universal problem of "how shall I be entertaining"—here is a little secret:

MOST OF US ARE SHY AND AWKWARD.

Most of us want so much to be pleasant and entertaining that we either strain to the point of being so nervous that we drive folks half crazy by our restlessness, or else we get dumb and tongue-tied as another effect of over-strain.

Remember this, girls—the young man who comes to call is shy, too. It is your home. It is your place as a hostess to make your guest feel at home. If it was at a dance you met and you already have music and dancing in common, isn't it a silly affectation to refuse to play the phonograph and start ahead from the pleasant point where you were last night?

A simple question such as this: "Did you work hard today?" may open the conversational gates and give the shy young man a chance to express himself.

The observing girl listens when her guests talks. She makes mental notes and asks intelligent questions. She may think of an experience the day yielded which is right in tune with what the man has been telling her.

She shows interest, friendly eagerness to hear what her guest has to say, a belief that he will be glad to know of some of the things that interest her. She shows that she is glad to offer the hospitality of her home to one who appreciates it.

The sympathetic woman who will stop thinking about herself and her desire to shine through brilliant and entertaining conversation can easily find out something about a man's interests. If she cannot do this by a simple method of observation, listening and deduction, she can frankly tell her visitor about something that interests her, and then as frankly ask if he has a fad or a particular interest.

FURNITURE IN HOME

By Marian Moore

THE feathery beauty of ferns makes a pleasing addition to any room. Fortunately, ferneries in oak, walnut, mahogany, reed, or even metal, can be found, so the beauty of the fern can be secured without an odd piece of furniture jarring the harmony of the room. The fernery in the photograph is of oak, with carved legs and stretchers.

The proper use for heavy carved picture frames is suggested in this photograph. They are the proper embellishment for the massive oil paintings which would be so much out of place in dainty narrow frames as the traditional bull in the china shop.

A tall torchere, with polychrome base and three electric candles, is the finishing touch to such an ensemble.

DAILY HOROSCOPE

Mary Blake Says:

ONLY benign aspects operate today. Therefore, it is an excellent day for all constructive efforts favoring business, social and health endeavors. Such a combination of planetary aspects tends to make one feel comfortable and easy-going, and the day will pass without your accomplishing much unless you make a strong effort to do things worth while.

If born on this day you will be persevering and generally successful if not hampered too much by ill health.

You will have a tendency to search after uncommon things and into unknown paths. You will have a little lack of the power of selection in the character of your work, but your life generally will fall into proper channels and will end in success.

FOXY GRANDPA STORY

IN A PRAIRIE-DOG VILLAGE

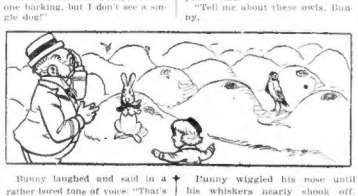
NO, you never can be too sure of anything, children. I had to take Bunny and Bobby to the motion pictures once, because I made a mistake.

We were touring across the United States over miles of prairies, when we came upon a village of prairie dogs, that seemed to pop up right out of the side of the road on which we were traveling.

"Let's stop and see them, Foxy Grandpa!" Bobby exclaimed.

So I turned off the engine—for we were motoring along the great Lincoln Highway—and we got out.

"There!" shouted Bobby. "I hear one barking, but I don't see a single dog!"



Bunny laughed and said in a rather bored tone of voice: "That's not a prairie dog barking. That's an owl."

"Ha, ha!" I shouted. "Don't make me laugh. What are you trying to do, fool us? That's the bark of a dog as sure as my name is Foxy Grandpa."

"Well, your name isn't Foxy Grandpa. Because I tell you that isn't a dog barking. It's an owl." And Bunny put his pink ears up higher than ever in the air.

"Well, I tell you what I'll do. If that's not a prairie dog barking, I'll take you and Bobby to the motion pictures in the next town."

"Fair enough," answered Bunny, winking at Bobby.

We walked nearer the group of mounds the prairie dogs had built all together like a village. Not a dog was in sight. They had heard us coming. And yet the barking was as loud as ever.

I was puzzled, I can tell you. I didn't know what to make of it.

Bunny wiggled his nose until his whiskers nearly shook off. When he does that it's a sign Bunny is interested in his subject. He explained with pleasure:

"He's a burrowing-owl. He isn't afraid of the day—daylight—like most owls, who always hide when it gets light, but he likes it."

"But how on earth does he happen to be way out here on the prairie with not a tree in sight and to be hopping around a prairie dog village?" I inquired.

"Why, here is where these owls live. They live right in the holes with the prairie-dogs. They like the prairie-dogs so well and are with them so much that they even learn to bark like them. No wonder you were fooled!"

At Bunny's suggestion we stood very still. Soon the little dogs started running out of their houses and began barking. What a racket they made! You couldn't tell which was the loudest barker, the prairie-dogs or the owls, for they sounded exactly alike.

How to Wave Hair to Appear Naturally Curly

Simple Silmerine Method

Apply a little Liquid Silmerine with a clean toothbrush just before doing up the hair. This will impart a bright lustre suggestive of "hidden charm," and the hair will have a delightful, wavy, perfectly natural in appearance, that will last for days. It will prove beneficial to the hair, instead of making it brittle and dead-looking as the hot iron does. Instead of your tresses being mean and contrary, you will find them quite easy to do up in any form, and there will be a total absence of stickiness about the hair. Ask your druggist for a few ounces of the Liquid Silmerine which will require no mixing.

LIQUID SILMERINE

WHO SAID IT AND WHERE

"As like as peas in a pod."

Similarity could hardly be expressed more clearly than by this old saying which is found in "Euphues," by Lyly, in the sixteenth century.

"Once he drew
With one kiss my whole soul through his lips."

Tennyson thus described a "soul kiss" in his poem, "Fatima."

"A lion among ladies is a most dreadful thing."

There were social lions even in the time of Shakespeare, who wrote his opinion of them in "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream."

"All the brothers were valiant, and all the sisters virtuous."

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

"What should I buy?" is the question daily asked by those who have some money to invest or speculate with.

I dislike having to give a reply first, because nobody can tell what the stock market may or may not do; second, because it is a suggestion works out all right, the one who has acted on it puts himself on the back for having exercised such fine judgment, but lays all the blame on you if the suggestion doesn't turn out well.

I don't dabble in and out of the stock market. Once a birthday in my family the other day brought the idea of buying a few shares of stock for each of my young hopefuls, and it may interest a few readers to know what line of reasoning I have adopted.

First of all, I said to myself: "I want to buy these little lads something which promises to increase in value years from now. I don't need to have dividends right away. They can afford to hold for what Wall Street calls the "long pull."

I next reasoned that common stock would naturally hold out the greatest possibilities for increase in market value over a term of years, if decided to buy common shares.

* * *

Then I laid down for myself an axiom which I have followed ever since I had my fingers burned, before I knew better, by following a different course. I determined to hand over my money only to a company or corporation run by men of the right character, men not notorious as speculators in their own or other stocks, men having their mind on their business, men bent upon deriving their reward from the building up of their company's worth and not from hoodwinking the public by stock market juggleries; men, too, not merely of good intentions, but possessing conspicuous ability.

I next reasoned that: No basic industry ever remains for many years in the doldrums, operating without reasonable profit. Moreover, the best time to buy stocks is when quotations are produced and the losses sustained by bad times.

Therefore, I would turn to three industries which have fared badly during recent hard times.

Finally—and I think this is rather important—I figured that either the largest or one of the largest companies in each industry is more likely to lead in field than some small concern. Because the more powerful companies usually can command the best executive brains and can effect economies through very large scale operations.

Having gone through this process of reasoning it was not difficult for me to select two of the largest industrial corporations whose common stock I should buy. Neither stock is at present paying a dividend, but I haven't the slightest doubt whatsoever but that both will reach the dividend stage in the reasonably near future. I consider that both issues are selling far below their real worth.

As for the third selection, I have not made up my mind, although I am inclined to favor either an automobile or a copper company. Both companies, to my mind, have as brainy managements as are found in the whole industry; both properties are paying dividends and have already had a marked recovery from their low points. Even on present, I regard their future as containing very great promise.

Please remember the purpose for which these stocks are being selected. They are to be held for a long period. It is not necessary that they yield any income in the immediate future. The main aim is to purchase something which offers every promise of becoming more valuable by and by.

* * *

Incidentally, if any reader should like to get my selections I will be glad to let him have them.

SINCLAIR OIL.

To P. O. H., Savin Hill avenue.—Sinclair Oil will probably pay a $2 extra dividend, as will be stated, but it would be rash to predict the date. I think the news of the gushers in the company's Mexican holdings was more responsible than anything else for the rise early this week. The extra dividend expected the extra dividend at this time. That the number of shares with "the wrong dope" were disappointed is reflected in Wednesday's selling, aided by the general weakness of the market.

Analysis of Sinclair Oil follows:

A combination of the Sinclair Oil & Refining Corporation, Sinclair Gulf Corporation and Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, the existing Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation has outstanding 4,401,875 shares of no par value common stock on which dividends of $2 annually are paid and appear fairly safe.

The common is junior to $20,000,000 8 per cent. cumulative preferred and $45,441,600 notes. Asset value of the common shares as of December 31, 1921, equalled $54 a share. This has been increased by developments of 1922, as will be shown in annual report to be made public within next fortnight. Net income for first six months equalled $4.18 on common shares, before taxes.

Net working capital of $46,811,656 was also increased during the year. Current assets of $69,976,019, included $6,232,640 cash, $28,738,262 accounts receivable, $22,244,868 inventory and $3,759,149 securities. Current liabilities of $19,163,363 included $11,075,000 notes payable, $5,401,425 accounts payable and $2,586,998 accruals. Surplus totalled $27,114,190 and reserves $51,000,000. Operations and properties are worldwide.

VAN RAALTE.

To M. D. W., Plymouth—I shall have to say to you in all sincerity that it is an everlasting difficult thing to attempt to advise you on Van Raalte common stock. A statement put out on April 3, by an official of the company, to the effect that in the first three months of 1923 sales were quite as satisfactory as in the corresponding period of 1922. No figures were given. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1922, the company reported earnings equal to $6.98 a share on the common stock, compared with $12.38 the previous year. The net earnings were annexed to $1,330,736, against $1,226,646.

Owing to the absence of a bull, since short I cannot tell you what the inventory shows, but think that a considerable markdown occurred along toward end of the 1922 year. The fact that the common stock fund the preferred took is so very small it is very largely because there doesn't appear to be any pool operations or anyone supporting the stock.

It does not reflect the company's good standing, in my opinion, and while of course is entirely a matter of pure conjecture as to the probable future market position of the shares, it is not without a certain degree of plausibility that one might consider the situation promising. I'd be somewhat disinclined to sell your stock now. I think the speculative chances are sufficiently good to warrant its retention for the whole hanger.

MOTHER LODE.

To J. H. H., East Providence, R. I.—Mother Lode Coalition has no regular or set dividend policy. The company has paid 50 cents a share dividends on December 30 to stock of record December 20, 1922. This made a total of $1 a share paid in 1922, and for this year there has been no dividend paid or even declared. Packard Motor Car Co. common stock has a par value of $10 a share. It now receives dividends at the rate of 2 per cent. quarterly. A dividend was paid January 31 to stock of record January 15, 1923. An initial dividend was paid last year and during the 1922 year a total of 2½ per cent. extra. The extra dividend was paid October 31 on December 16, 1922, the company made an extra stock dividend payment of 100 per cent.

JACKLING SEES SUCCESS FOR COPPERS

D. C. Jackling, managing director of Utah, Ray, Chino and Nevada Copper companies says that while his companies are increasing their output, present rate must be studied and several months will be required to reach capacity.

Mr. Jackling considers the general copper situation very satisfactory.

While more general and efficient adoption of flotation in the flow sheets at the mills of these companies will increase recovery somewhat, the main advantage of this and other improvements is in decrease costs. Normal tonnage of ore that can be milled after contemplated changes are completed will remain about the same as previous times of capacity operations.

CHINO GAINS.

This indicates an annual normal capacity for Utah Copper of 225,000,000 to 230,000,000 pounds of copper a year, or approximately 20,000,000 pounds a month. Nevada above 100,000,000 a year, or roughly 9,000,000 a month. Ray has a capacity for producing approximately 90,000,000 a year, or 7,500,000 a month.

Improvements in metallurgical practice and mechanical changes will increase Chino's normal output to somewhat higher figures, especially as better extractions are indicated upon the oxidized portion of the mill feed. Capacity of this unit is to be should also approach 90,000,000 pounds of copper a year, or 7,500,000 a month.

Mr. Jackling pointed out that no copper mine in the United States could be called upon to meet the low costs of pre-war. Labor and materials are 50 per cent. or more high-er than pre-war. He believes that it will be years, as far as properties in the United States are concerned, before low-grade underground mines will be able to produce copper for under 10 cents a pound. Costs at steam-shovel mines will not be quite so advantageous as before the war, 8 cent cost of producing copper is at present around 8 1-3 cents a pound.

PRESENT PROFIT CUTS.

Mr. Jackling's present rate of production is about 65 per cent. of the new normal. Nevada is now at about 50 per cent. and should be in another 30 days at about 80 per cent., with further completion of the new concentrating mill. Ray and Chino are both at about 60 per cent. capacity.

Mr. Jackling believes that the new Chino mill will be in full swing one will prove successful. In the past only indifferent extracting has been made on the part of Chino's oxidized ores and flotation equipment has been inadequate and expensive to operate. Equipment to be installed at the flotation mill greatly improve extractions, especially if the new process for eliminating the oxidized portion of the copper to such recovery is as successful as tests indicate. The net result will, consequently, both in regards to costs and output Chino should show improvement of a great nature, if not gratification, the others.

What Can We READ and THINK?

That Is for US to Decide

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The courts have been trying a man for "advocating the overthrow of the United States government." That's a serious charge. It's to be hoped the government is not in great danger.

But the fact that the accused man had books by Lenin and Trotzky, telling how THEY would run the world, is no crime.

Those men, Lenin and Trotsky, are at the head of a great government, and knowledge of their views, whether we like them or not, should be part of general education. To KNOW what is going on is to be safe, and NOT to know is dangerous.

The Grand Llama believes and says that he is the reincarnation of Buddha. We think and know that's false and foolish. But it's no crime to read about it.

The theory that citizens need courts to tell them what they may read, think and believe does not seem much like the old American theory. Franklin, Washington and the rest, who not only advocated the overthrow of government, but actually overthrew it and took its place, would have been surprised had someone told them you must not read the French encyclopaedists. We don't approve their views.

Own Your Home by All Means

And Then Watch Your TAXES

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

To own your home, a farm, a cottage, a grand house, is fine. It gives you a feeling of independence. "I own part of the earth right through to China," you say. "Show me the single-taxer that would take it from me."

But then comes along the other "taxer"—the official taxer—with water taxes, school taxes, road taxes, general taxes, income taxes, etc., and your fine feeling vanishes.

The Russian peasants know, to their sorrow, the other side of land ownership. Bolshevism took the land from the nobles and gave it to the peasants. Then Bolshevism confiscated the peasants' crops. That was necessary for awhile, perhaps, to feed the cities and the army. But after crop seizure heavy taxes were laid on the lands "freely given."

However, Bolshevism seems to realize, which this government does not, that you cannot safely discourage a nation's farmers. Now, Russia's farm taxes are to be cut to practically nothing on little farmers, the heavier taxes remaining only on farms able to pay them.

As long as Russia protects the peasants in their land the government need fear no successful rebellion.

If our Republican party thought a little more about farmers, a little less about railroad owners and coal mine owners, it would not wake up so often in a cold sweat wondering about Henry Ford and what he would do if President.

So Nice and Simple

And the People Would Pay All Over Again

Copyright, 1923, Star Company

The steamship men have a solution for the United States shipping problem, a very simple, pretty solution. They say, "Scrap the poor, worthless ships, sell all the rest to United States citizens, without any conditions or restrictions, at whatever price they will fetch."

A short, easy program. The "United States citizens," of course, would be the shipping ring. It would sell the best of the ships to European powers, possibly to Japan, at United States bargain prices or put them under foreign flags.

And if trouble came and we needed ships to carry soldiers or to carry our goods, when all other nations happened to need their own shipping, we would be just where we were before—when we spent nearly a thousand millions for wooden ships that we can't give away now and other millions for other ships that the nation OUGHT to keep and use in self-defence.

The government needs the protection of national ship ownership in two ways, first, for protection against foreign nations and against loss of our trade; second, and equally important, for protection against the gang of grafters that would build the next lot of ships if war came on.

Plan to Fight H. C. L.

Professor Harris Suggests Ways in Which Price of Foodstuffs May Be Reduced

We are very much interested in the suggestion of Professor William F. Harris of Cambridge, who is chairman of the Metropolitan Boston Planning Federation, that there ought to be permanent organizations whose duty it would be to plan a constant fight against an increase in the cost of living.

We quote part of what Professor Harris said on the subject:

If a pound of steak that costs 31 cents in Chicago and 41 cents in New York is 52 cents in Boston, a part, at least, of that difference is due to physical conditions in Metropolitan Boston that wise planning can alter. The advent of the motor truck makes it greatly advantageous to move terminal freight goods from expensive city land to cheaper land and more room outside the city, thereby reducing overhead charges and freight costs.

The old freight sheds can be converted, if necessary, into wholesale markets for food products and connected by trolley freight lines with all the food-distributing centres of the metropolitan district. The conditions of congestion existing between the terminal stations in Boston and the wholesale food markets add an unnecessary tax on every pound of food consumed by each inhabitant of Greater Boston.

The idea is worth serious consideration, and we hope that it may be pushed along.

BODY WORKS DAYS, BRAIN ALL NIGHT

SPOKANE, Wash., April 13.—Jacob A. Aley of Spokane claims to be the first man who works 24 hours a day. He says he's done it for about 15 years and suffered no ill effects.

Daytime Aley works on his regular job; night time he puts his brain to work to produce inventions while he sleeps.

"I never consciously invent details of my inventions during waking hours," he says. "If I have a problem I state it, consciously, to my brain. During the sleep time at night my brain works out the thing and presents me with the result in the morning."

His Traffic Plan

Editor Boston American:

Three years ago you asked for suggestions, to be printed in your valuable paper, that would tend to relieve the congestion of traffic in Boston. My suggestion was mailed to you and printed with many others. I received many personal letters about that time, each informing me that my plan was of little value, and no doubt was the product of an unsophisticated mind. Tuesday the Boston Post gives almost the whole front page to place this plan of mine before the people. It is just my plan to a letter, and it would give me great satisfaction if you would claim it for me and your paper.

Thanks the Givers

Editor Helping Hand:

I wrote in explaining my case to you, of how I was the oldest of twelve children, my mother having died recently and my father being dead also. I asked for anything in the line of household furniture or clothes. I have had my request answered, and I really do not know how to begin to thank you and the people who have helped me through the Helping Hand in the time of our greatest need. I shall never forget the Helping Hand and the people that helped so much.

ANNA.

ED. NOTE—We always shy a little when the thanks come in, because we don't really seem to deserve them so much as those that do the giving; but we will admit your letter made us feel good. It's a good world, after all.

Editor Helping Hand:

PRESIDENT HARDING SAYS HIS TOUR IS MISINTERPRETED

By Herbert Kaufman

HARDING intimates the abandonment of his forthcoming tour if newspapers continue to impute political motives to these little journeys.

The President feels that he should appear before the people from time to time to signify his attitude on various matters.

A radio station at the White House would afford him such opportunity without leaving Washington. And incidentally reach millions instead of handsful.

Nothing will erase the impression that the projected trip is a fence-mending expedition except a denial of re-election expectations.

If there is any misjudgment of the situation its inspiration lies within the official family circle.

Several Cabinet members have not hesitated to declare that the Republican party has no intention of swapping heads.

They Don't Know the War Is Over

The Capitol could hardly broadcast sweeter music, for instance, than a general reduction of income taxes, which the President is said to favor.

Secretary Mellon, you will remember, would give the benefit of all revision to surtaxes. Treasury receipts indicate the time has arrived to ease up on national pocketbooks.

Savings accounts don't know that the war is over. Neither do Federal expenditures. General Dawes' savings aren't yet manifest to personal checkbooks.

This government must get out of its billion-dollar habits. Congress will discover many ways to recut its cloth when protesting public opinion effects some real economies.

Economy means "house management"—significant word!

England Invites Us to a Barmicide Feast

After a little while British pocketbooks won't know that war debts are being paid to the United States. Time counts the years of liquidation and chuckles at the misguided notion that pounds and pence shall reduce the loans. Those billions will actually be met by the little red pumps at which American car owners buy their motor fuel.

Sir Mackey Edgar of the Oil Fields Company blandly announces that practically all known foreign fields now spout under the British flag, and cheerfully predicts billions of dollars worth of gasoline within another decade.

Not that we're excluded from any territory. There's nothing in sight to exclude us from. The other fellow already has everything.

Cuba keeps taking its bit. Raw sugar reaches a new peak. Two refiners promptly increase their prices five and ten points respectively. Mr. Hoover and his experts find nothing in their statistics to justify advances. Profiteers make no pretense of justification. Experience advises them to go the limit.

Hilma Has a High Opinion of Herself

Hilma Gurgenson's attorneys advise her to go the limit, too. She demands $50,000 damages because an employer's parrot bit her finger. Infection, amputation and litigation follow.

Phidias, Michael Angelo or Paderewski could hardly have estimated their digits more highly than this exponent of domestic arts. Calculated by pounds, the lady's opinion of her worth reaches far beyond the proverbial weight in gold. She'll take less.

Samuel Roth prays in a cemetery and his father-in-law's tombstone falls on him. A jury awards him $5,000. Superstitious folk will immediately probe the accident for a mystic significance.

Carnarvon died from a scratched mosquito bite, but the tradition of death by vengeful gods will live for ages. Man refuses to accept the obvious.

A Few Games That Can't Be Bucked

A cashier earning $125 a month steals $977,000 from a Springfield bank and then loses it in the stock market. A Federal judge sentences him to twenty-one years in Atlanta. He wouldn't accept the obvious, either.

Any man who thinks that the American Banking Association would ever let a defaulter get away with a million dollars deserves a lifetime in Matteawan.

New York passes an ordinance forbidding exhibitions by "human flies." Persons climbing the face of skyscrapers will be fined ten dollars or ten days or both. Considering the sums earned by these hair-brained adventurers, a more toothless statute could hardly be imagined.

They don't belong in jail, anyhow. The proper place for folk who believe that they can continue to get away with suicidal stunts is the insane asylum.

Normal minds don't work that way.

A stolen taxi running at terrific speed crashes into a Salvation Army band, injures twenty marchers and leaves one hovering between life and death. Justice will miscarry if the guilty rascal gets away with less than capital punishment.

Some More Big Scores for Science

Cancer is cornered. It can be cured. Certain forms of the dreadest disease yield to a combination of knife and radium or X-rays.

Dr. George Crile, most distinguished of surgeons and a mouthpiece of conservatism, is convinced that medicine is about to celebrate its supreme triumph.

His announcement lights a beacon for thousands of hopeless souls. What a score science is making on this century!

English investigators twice claim to have found anthrax germs in oranges. No substantiation for the statement. Sr take it with a pinch of salt. Some parasites are common to both plants and animals, but microbe diseases are not.

Pilotless French planes rise, fly and land by wireless. The inventors predict their coming use for mail and express service. Imagination, however, fills the air with swarms of automatic bombers timed to release their explosives at given points world over.

Every nation is at the mercy of any power with ten thousand sky ships. Several European countries will soon be that strong, and don't take that with a pinch of salt.
